Asks Boost In Garbage Rate

Council Committee Agrees on Increase And Charge for Ash Service to Get Department Out of the Red.

City council's sewer-garbage committee today had agreed on a plan to boost the Mansfield garbage collection charge and is expected to submit the proposal to council for action at its October meeting.

Meeting in caucus last night, the committeemen also recommended a minimum ash collection charge of $6 a year to help pull the city's garbage department out of the red.

The present garbage service charge is $7.20 while there is no charge for ashes and trash.

Most of the committeemen said they thought a plan providing a specific charge for a minimum amount of ashes and trash with additional amounts to be scaled upward accordingly, appeared the fairest method. They discussed a minimum rate of $6 per year for nine bushels or 300 pounds.

* * *

Plan 6-Month Periods.

The committee also is expected to recommend that council place the garbage collection period on a six-month basis rather than quarterly as charges are paid now.

The decision on whether to require residents to place their ashes and trash at the curb was left open last night, a committee spokesman said.

Most committeemen, however, frowned on the idea of requiring subscribers to put their ash and trash collections at the curb, pointing out that many aged persons are unable to perform the task.

From the city's standpoint, placing containers of trash at the curb might mean that it would be scattered over town by the wind and would necessitate more work in cleaning the city streets, councilmen said.

One recommendation almost sure to go into the ordinance, the spokesman said, is that suitable containers be required so collectors won't have to shovel ashes off the floor.

At present, several persons are collecting garbage in various parts of the city without having permits, it was pointed out.

The present ordinance requires that a permit be obtained every six months at a cost of $5. More stringent enforcement is expected on this offense, the spokesman said.

BARES FACTS IN SCHETTLER CASE

Attorney Explains Doctor's Disappearance.

Disappearance last Aug. 29 of Dr. O. H. Schettler, Mansfield physician for the past 25 years, was explained in a formal statement today by Atty. William F. Black, representing the doctor's wife, Mary.

The statement said:

"In order to correct the many unfounded rumors relating to the absence of Dr. O. H. Schettler from this city, his wife and his cousin, Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler, have authorized me to state the following facts:

"Dr. Schettler has been overworked, with resultant severe nervous strain, for a considerable period of time, due to his extensive medical and surgical practice, and has felt it necessary to discontinue temporarily such practice and to obtain a complete rest.

"In July he took a vacation, went on a fishing trip to Canada, and hoped to improve his health in such relaxation. The time so spent was not sufficient, but during August he performed such duties in his profession as he considered absolutely necessary, attempting to work to a limited extent and rejecting all but imperative cases. He did not improve and expressed the need for absolute rest.

"On Aug. 29, Dr. Schettler left Mansfield in his automobile, without disclosing his destination. On that day a number of letters were mailed by him from Columbus, O., such letters being to his wife, to his sons, to Judge Schettler, to the hospital staff, to companies by whom he was employed as physician, to his office secretary requesting her to look after the office during his absence, and to some others.

"As far as known, he has not been seen or heard from since that date, and his present location is not known.

"From statements contained in the letters, and from comments made to his family in August, it is apparent to us that he desires a complete rest in order to regain his health.

"His absence may not continue very long, if he improves in health. The handling of his various business and office matters during his absence requires some legal aid, and that is being given in full cooperation of his wife, Judge Schettler and myself."

Scientists Bare Development of Powerful Poison.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(INS)— The atomic bomb was in the six-shooter category today as U. S. scientists revealed development of a new poison so powerful that an ounce of it could kill every person in the U. S. and Canada.

Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, head of the U. S. chemical warfare division, said in Washington that an ounce of the swift, silent poison could wipe out 180,000,000 people if properly administered.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— After 35 years as executive secretary of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health association, Dr. Robert G. Paterson will retire, the association announced today. John A. Louis of Columbus was named Patterson's successor.

'CAN'T MAKE PROFIT NOW,' THEY ASSERT

Eating Places Throughout the Nation Close in Protest to Price-Cut Demand.

Mansfield restaurant owners joined today a spreading state and national defiance of OPA's order to roll back prices on meals.

Although unorganized locally, restaurant operators gave an almost unanimous "NO!" today when asked if they have or would set back prices to the June 30 level, as ordered by the control agency.

"It's impossible to roll back prices," Ward Holdridge, manager of the Happy Harry House, said. "We can't make any profit now."

"I don't see how OPA expects restaurants to stay open at the prices they've set on meals," said Robert Hayes, manager of the two cafeterias and three canteens in the Westinghouse plant.

* * *

300 Per Cent Price Hike.

Hayes, who supervises the restaurants which serve between 2,800 and 3,000 persons per day, added that he hadn't been able to get meat and that there was "no profit in the business any more."

E. W. Sutter, owner and manager of the two restaurants, asserted, "None of us could roll prices back because we can't operate at a loss. There isn't a restaurant proprietor in the business who's making any money."

Sutter contended that some restaurant items had increased 300 per cent in cost, and that price levels on most foods demanded higher prices on meals than OPA stipulations.

Cut Quantity To Comply.

Frank Thanos, manager of the Boston restaurant, was especially bitter.

"Meat? Where do you get it? We haven't had any," he said.

He, likewise, asserted restaurants were "losing money."

Only proprietor called who indicated acquiescence to the OPA rule was Miss Sue Cline, manager of the Evergreens cafeteria. She said: "We haven't rolled our

Oct. 28 Set To Help Hunt Hallowe'en

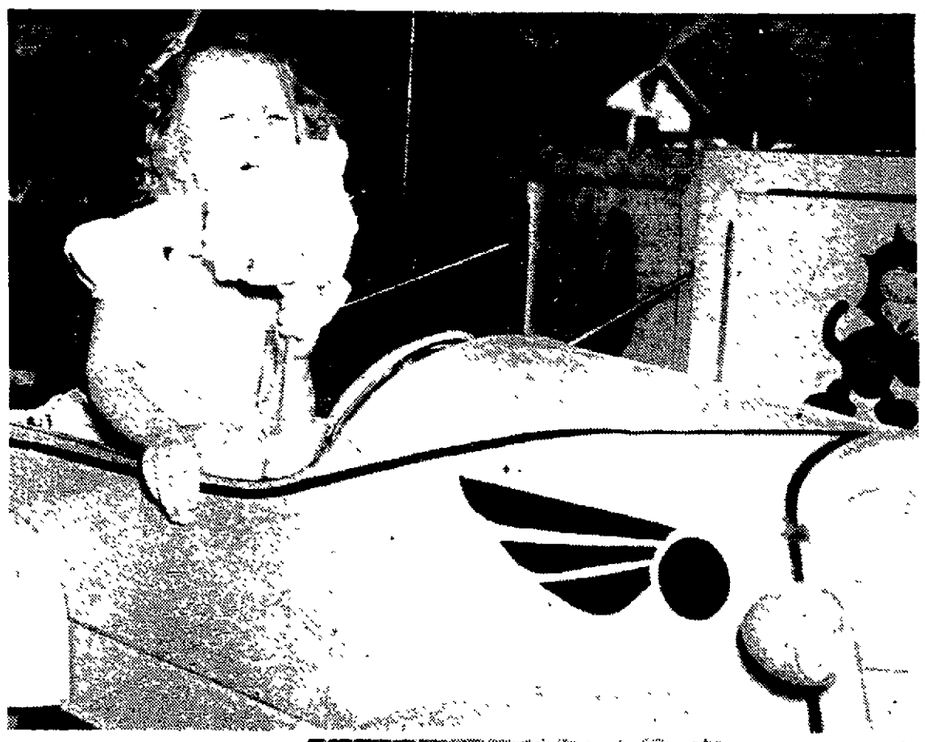
Mansfield's "Help Hunt Hallowe'en" celebration was set today for Oct. 28.

Started years ago by the late Fred Hunt as a treat for his newsboys, the celebration has become an annual event with a parade and dance and prizes for best costumes.

This year's celebration will hold to the original plan. Masked celebrants will parade downtown streets and will dance later at the Coliseum.

Since the death of Fred Hunt, Mrs. Ada Doerr has given to some charitable purpose all proceeds of the celebration started by her late husband. This year money made from the dance will be turned over to Friendly House for use in its camp outing fund.

The fund will be administered by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gimbel, Friendly House supervisors.



IT'S WONDERFUL—With a generous portion of cotton candy in one hand and her face shining with happiness, Jennie Moore, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, 538 Bank street, Ashland, saw her first fair yesterday. The automobile crash by one of Jimmy Lynch's daredevils (below) was one of the many attractions which thrilled Jennie and 7,000 other spectators at "opening day" of the Ashland county centennial fair marking 100 years of good living in the rich agricultural county. — News-Journal Photos.

REPORT LABOR DISPUTE ENDED

Westinghouse Workers Said to Be Back on Jobs.

An unauthorized walkout of 175 workers in the viterous enameling department of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant which idled several hundred employes was reported over today with the "vit" workers returning to their jobs.

Hundreds of others who were thrown out of work on the range assembly line will not go back until about Monday.

It will take that long for the two enameling operations in the "vit" to catch up with the backlog of ranges which moved down the assembly line after the walkout threw them out of work. The enameling plant workers left their jobs last Friday.

The nearly week long walkout occurred when workers on the enameling furnaces reportedly drew low pay checks, the walkout was not authorized by the union which last summer signed a contract with the company after one of the longest sarikes in the nation.

Apartment Gas Blast Hurts 5

CLEVELAND—(UP)—Five persons were injured early today in a gas explosion and fire in one of a group of ten suites in an apartment house here. All five victims, taken to Charity hospital suffering from burns and cuts, were reported in "fair" condition.

Nearly 100 residents of the adjoining L & K hotel were forced to flee their rooms. Damage was estimated at $20,000. The explosion occurred in the suite of John Kazolis, 41. He and his wife told police they smelled gas in the apartment about two hours before the explosion and fire.

Jennie, Who's Just Four, Thrills to Ashland Fair

By GEORGE SATTLER
(News-Journal Staff Writer)

ASHLAND—Jennie Moore, 4, doesn't know a bull from a bullet, but she had the time of her life at the biggest fair in Ashland county history yesterday.

"Fairs are just wonderful," said Jennie, her mouth full of cotton candy.

Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Moore, 538 Bank street, Ashland, thrilled to her first fair. But to 7,000 adult fair lovers, the opening day of the Ashland County Centennial fair marked 100 years of good living in a county rich in agriculture.

* * *

She's Spellbound.

When Jennie walked for the first time down the midway, the ponies, merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels, midget trains, and the blare of holiday music held her spellbound.

"O-o-oh," was all she could say, her eyes dancing in expectation.

Jennie wanted to ride on everything immediately, and see everything at once. But Mr. and Mrs. Moore, being wise parents, bought Jennie a huge ball of cotton candy and took her into one of the exhibits to calm her down.

"Oh, Mommy, look at the big pig!" Jennie cried, pointing into one of the stalls.

* * *

Turn About Laughs.

The crowd roared. Jennie was pointing straight at one of the biggest cows anybody ever saw.

Jennie spent a delightful half-hour looking at the "pigs," horses and other livestock. As she left the building housing the horses, Yugoslavs Defy Ministers on Trieste Problem.

PARIS—(INS)—Yugoslavia defied today a United States dictum to accept the council of foreign ministers' solution of the Trieste problem and threatened that she would not remove the Yugoslav army "from parts of its fatherland."

Wallace Plays 'Clam' Role After Agreeing to Foreign Policy Gag

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace has refused to take part in the Democratic congressional campaign unless President Truman permits him to discuss foreign policy, the United Press was informed today.

Wallace silenced himself on all subjects after rejecting Mr. Truman's proposal that he address the voters on domestic issues only. His speaking engagements have been cancelled until the end of the Paris peace conference.

Deny War Charge.

Within minutes after that temporary adjustment of the cabinet crisis had been achieved, the White House made public a joint letter from the secretaries of war and navy sharply challenging either Wallace's facts or his veracity.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Secretary of Navy James Forrestal wrote that there was no truth in Wallace's statement published Wednesday that a school of military thought advocated immediate attack on Russia—before the Soviets can obtain atomic bombs. The fact that the White House made the Patterson-Forrestal letter public was in itself a presidential rebuke to Wallace.

Mr. Truman met Wallace yesterday in a two and one half hour White House conference. It was assured then that Wallace would remain in the cabinet. But no more than a truce has been obtained in the cabinet crisis which confronts the president. He still is in the middle between Wallace and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes although the showdown has been postponed, perhaps until after the elections.

When the secretary of commerce met with Mr. Truman at the White House, the president objected to Wallace's anti-administration foreign policy speeches during the critical Paris peace

Goes to Jail But Won't Kill Butch

EAST DETROIT, Mich —(INS)— An East Detroit mother of six children was behind bars in the Macomb county jail today because she disobeyed a court order to kill the family dog, "Butch."

Mrs. Illetta Whiles was brought to court today after "Butch" reappeared on the streets without a leash. Justice McPherson gave her three days for contempt and the alternative of ten days if she fails to pay a fine of $10.50. The 36-year-old mother declared she will sit the ten days out in a cell . . . but I won't obey the court order to destroy Butch."

Burglars Hack Way To Money

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Burglars early today cut their way through a wall of the Parkview Savings & Loan company here, broke into the vault, and escaped with $65,000 in cash.

The theft was discovered shortly after 9 a. m. when the first employes arrived for work, found the wall broken open and brickwork scattered around.

* * *

BIGGEST ROBBERY HAUL IN YEARS.

Police said the loot was the largest amount to be stolen here in many years. They believed that the burglars may have used crowbars and sledgehammers to smash away the wall adjoining the vault.

The burglars hacked their way first through the wall to gain entrance to the basement, then apparently burned a hole in the wall-type vault with acetylene torches and carried away the money.

The bank was held up in 1939 by two gunmen who obtained $200 in nickels resting on top of a safe. However, the trio missed $17,000 which a few minutes before had been locked in the vault.

CIO SEAMEN WIN PAY HIKE

Arbitrator Says Boost Will End Maritime Dispute.

NEW YORK —(INS)— James L. Fly, today announced an arbitration award of pay boosts averaging five to $10 a month for more than 90,000 members of the CIO National Maritime union, and said this should become "the basis for settlement of the entire maritime dispute."

The federally-appointed arbitrator said these increases, which range from $2-$30 a month will generally erase the pay differences between the CIO seamen and AFL seamen, cause of the recent NMU nationwide walkout.

Fly said he expects by the "first of next week, possibly Monday," to make awards in the wage dispute involving CIO Marine Cooks and Stewarts of the west coast and the American Communications association.

He said these awards would generally follow the pattern set by him in the NMU case.

Fly called upon the maritime unions still on strike to return to work immediately on this basis.

HEAT STAYS

Summer Weather to Continue at Least Another Day.

The mercury was due to climb close to the 90-mark this afternoon as Ohio continued to swelter in mid-summer heat.

The mercury touched 83 yesterday and there appeared little possibility today of a change to cooler before Saturday. It will be fair tonight and Friday, the forecast said.

Yesterday was summer-like over the entire middle west. Cleveland reported 86; Cincinnati, 86, and Akron, 85. Most areas, however, reported rain is needed badly to moisten the ground for fall seeding.

Dye Approved As Cage Coach

COLUMBUS —(AP)—Ohio State University's Athletic board today informally approved appointment of William H. H. (Tippy) Dye, assistant football coach, to succeed Harold G. Olsen as basketball coach. Olsen resigned to coach professional basketball.

The board also approved the return of Floyd Stahl as head baseball coach, a position he left in 1938 to join Harvard university's coaching staff.

RESCUE PARTY RUSHING AID TO SURVIVORS

Atlantic Airliner Carrying 44 Persons Crashes in Newfoundland.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Wreckage of the Sabena plane, which had been reported missing with 44 persons aboard near Gander, Newfoundland, has been located and there are "some survivors," the company announced at La Guardia field today.

The statement released through Pan-American Airways offices at the airport said that the airline had been advised by the "Newfoundland civil aviation authorities that wreckage of the OOCBG (Sabena DC-4 plane license) was discovered 22 miles southwest of Gander."

The statement added:

"There were some survivors, and a rescue party was proceeding immediately" to the scene.

At least five and perhaps seven or more persons survived the crash, aid observers reported.

* * *

Plane Drops Supplies.

The wreckage was reported sighted by a search plane. The plane dropped supplies near the four-engine aircraft before returning to base.

Airport officials at Gander dispatched a land search party to the site of the wreckage.

The last contact with the Sabena Airlines plane with 37 passengers and a crew of seven aboard was made at 3:37 a. m. (EDT) yesterday, when the aircraft made an instrument approach to the Gander field.

With a ceiling of about 500 feet, the plane flew over the field once and then disappeared.

* * *

Weather Clears.

All available aircraft scoured the district surrounding the airport, but adverse weather conditions then hampered their search.

Today the skies were brilliantly clear.

The plane left Brussels Tuesday night and made a refueling stop at Shannon airport, Eire, before heading out over the North Atlantic. It was piloted by Capt. Jean Ester, RAF and Belgian Air Force pilot.

BEGIN AIRPORT LIGHT PROJECT

Workmen to Start Installing System Next Monday.

Installation of a lighting system at the new Mansfield airport is scheduled to begin next Monday, it was learned today at the port.

Contract for the work was awarded to the Gustav Hirsch organization of Columbus by the Civil Aeronautics authority in Chicago. The project is expected to cost approximately $35,000.

Work is due to be completed within 60 days, or before cold weather.

The contract calls for installation of 105 lights, including four green range lights at each end of the two paved runways and contact, flush-type lights with split filters as the runway approaches. Rest of the runways will be outlined with flush-type white lights.

A 51-foot beacon tower also will be installed just north of the hangars. CAA is financing the light installations.

Airlines to Try Union Terminals

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The nation's airlines decided today to try out a system now used by railroads in many cities—that of a union terminal with one group of operators handling facilities for all carriers.

The Air Transport association, an organization of major airlines, announced that an airline terminal corporation will be set up "for experimental purposes" to handle facilities in a few cities. The cities have not been selected.

Quick Diagnosis Methods Aid In Struggle Against Cancer

NEW YORK —(UP)— Diagnosis of cancer in some cases can be made within five to 10 minutes, and in others usually not more than 24 hours.

That speedy and effective system oftentimes has caught cancer in time to permit an effective control for a cure.

The laboratory test, called in medical terms a biopsy, is one of the most important functions of the preventive clinic of a cancer center. It is given to persons who have suspicious growths or tumors and is an addition in such cases to a thorough physical examination.

Three Types of Biopsy.

The biopsy now is generally recognized for its reliability. There are three types of biopsy.

One is the test by aspiration, pioneered by Memorial Cancer hospital here, when a small amount of secretion from a suspicious growth is extracted by needle and placed on a microscopic slide. Results of this test can be determined within 15 minutes—whether the growth is positive or negative.

By using the aspiration test, there is less chance of causing a cancerous condition from spreading to the blood stream.

Type two is the frozen section test. In such cases, the patient usually is on the operating table for the removal of a tumor. The surgeon may discover suspicious tissue. A section is sent to the laboratory where it is quickly frozen by carbon dioxide, sliced into thin strips and examined. Within five to 10 minutes, while the patient still is in the operating room, the surgeon knows whether he is operating for malignant or benign tumor.

Type three is surgical biopsy. This is given when a patient enters the center with a surface lesion. A small section of the tissue is clipped out and sent to the laboratory. Through chemical treatment, the results are known within 24 hours.

The biopsy tests are made only on those persons who have suspicious growths or open lesions. All, however, are given the thorough physical examinations, including a series of X-ray photographs. In many instances, other diseases, such as diabetes, heart ailment and tuberculosis, are turned up in these examinations.

Reveals Cancer Quickly.

The biopsy is important in that it quickly discovers cancer, thereby giving both the patient and the doctor that great time advantage because in cancer every minute counts. Also, if the biopsy shows negative, the patient can forget his cancer complex, at least for the time being, although he should return for later examinations, just to make sure.

When a patient has definitely been classified as positive, the report is usually sent to his personal physician who then advises the patient where to take treatment.

The type of treatment varies: surgery is done whenever possible: X-ray, radium or radon treatments are used when the cancerous growth may be in some part of the body not safely accessible by surgery.

The conventional forms, however, may be on their way out if research into the possibilities of using radioactive isotopes proves effective.

Cancer experts now hope that by-product particles of atomic fission may be used both as "tracer" in cancer as well as in treatment. So-called radioactive carbon 14, a by-product of the atomic bomb factories, is one of the natural isotopes in which cancer scientists are deeply interested.

They also are thinking of an electron producing machine, even greater than the atom smashing Cyclotron, to be used against cancer. Their goal is to find some means to send the fast-traveling electrons into the core of the cancer cell without damaging the intervening or surrounding normal tissues of the body.

It may also be that research will enable isotope treatment of cancer by the "tracer" method—that is, internal application of radioactive elements in a patient which will seek out and kill cancer cells wherever they may be—yet not so long-lived or toxic as to kill normal tissue.

That, of course, would be simplified when and if the scientists solve the great mystery of causes of cancer. This they expect to do.

Doctors Find Use For Mustard Gas

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The army has revealed that the wartime terror of mustard gas has opened a possible new field of medicine promising advanced treatment for such malignant growths as cancer.

The newly revealed chemical agent discovered during mustard gas experiments in World War II already has been used with "conspicuous beneficial effects" on three anemic patients.

Their rare malady was Hodgkin's disease, characterized by severe enlargement of the lymph nodes and the spleen and accompanied by a profound anemia which eventually proves fatal. Life of the patients was said to have been prolonged.

CLUB SPONSORS AID FOR DEAF

Cooperatives Assist Hard-of-Hearing Children.

A program to assist deaf and hard-of-hearing children of Mansfield is sponsored by the Cooperative club of Mansfield.

Working in conjunction with the state department division of special education, the club began its program some four years ago.

Joe Nonds, first vice president, explained today that the club attempts to provide hearing aids for those children whom tests show can be helped by such a device and to provide other materials and equipment that might be of some benefit to the children. Recently the club has provided a piano from the proceeds of which the children learn music.

The Cooperatives also plan entertainment at the meetings at the West First street school, and an annual picnic at one of the local parks.

Two classes are being held this year with an enrollment of seven children. The school seeks to teach the children lip reading and to develop speech facilities as far as possible.

Two teachers, Mrs. Blaze, Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Thelma Davis, specially trained for their work guide the children through the learning process. Every other week Dr. Randall Davis, state supervisor, visits the classes.

An audiometer is used to make regular recorded tests of the children's progress. When the tests indicate a child would benefit from the use of a hearing aid the Cooperative club takes steps to provide such a device.

One In 3 Couples Divorced In 1945

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The nation's courts ground out nearly one-third as many divorces as there were marriages in 1945, setting a divorce record 25.5 per cent over that of 1944, the previous peak year.

In reporting the divorce-marriage ratio, the federal security agency said more than 500,000 marriages ended in divorce courts last year, while 1,518,331 couples formed new families. The marriage rate was 8.8 per cent below the peak year of 1942.

BETTER SCHOOL ATHLETIC PLAN SEEN IN FUTURE

Mehock Foresees Constant Improvement in Program For Mansfield.

A constant improvement in Mansfield public school athletic prospects was predicted yesterday by Harry Mehock, athletic director of Mansfield public schools, in an address at the Optimist club's noonday meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

"Although the coaching staff of the high school has grown from two men 20 years ago who did everything but play the game, to the present staff of five," Mehock said, "in comparison to some of the schools with which Mansfield competes we are playing in a major league with minor league facilities."

"The school and athletic boards are very conscious of our needs," Mehock continues, "and everything is being done to expedite and expand the athletic program."

Predicting the completion of the new stadium by next year, with a seating capacity of 12,000, and designed for future expansion to accommodate 20,000 persons, Mehock said that the major drawback to an expanding athletic program," lack of sufficient space," would be largely eliminated.

Frank Mayer, program chairman, introduced the speaker, after Tom Shocker, club president reported briefly on plans for the 5th district Optimists meeting to be held in Evansville, Indiana. It was also announced that the 1948 International Optimists convention will be held in Cleveland.

Feller Tries Again Today

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Bob Feller gets another chance today to boost his strikeout total—the principal pitching incentive left him this season.

His total now stands at 315—28 away from the record—as he faces Early Wynn in the Cleveland Indians' second game of the current series with the Washington Nationals, making their last appearance here this season.

If there is any occasion for relief pitching against Detroit Saturday, Feller expects to handle it as well as start against the Tigers Sunday.

The Indians yesterday absorbed an 8 to 1 beating as the Nats got four home runs.

Rookie Ralph McCabe retired after the first four innings in which the Nats tagged him for five runs in all, including the circuit smashes of Sherry Robertson, Mickey Vernon and Jake Early. Joe Krakauskas, taking over in the fifth, was greeted by Stan Spence's homer.

Palmer and Brugge Return to Lineup

COLUMBUS —(AP)— When the most important scrimmage of fall practice thus far comes up tomorrow for Ohio State University's football squad, Coach Paul Bixler expects to have his number one backfield in running condition.

Quarterback Dick Palmer, his injured ankle securely wrapped, returned to the field yesterday. Earlier Right Half Bob Brugge was out with a charlie horse.

Left Halfback Tommy James and Fullback Joe Whisler, who complete the first string backfield, have avoided injury.

Bixler would like to have Jerry Krall, his second-string left half, in Friday's action. Krall, who has been handicapped by continuous injuries, has shown considerable promise when he did work out.

HEAVY SALES PUSH STOCKS TO NEW LOW

Recovery Sorties Unable to Develop Real Stamina as Prices Drop.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market averages today dropped to a new low for the past 18 months on heavy volume notwithstanding intermittent recovery sorties which failed to develop any real stamina.

Commission men continued to blame selling partly on the idea the breaking of recent lows meant that a bear market may be under way, that growing labor disputes will seriously retard industry and complex foreign and domestic political affairs tend to cloud the economic picture. Some bidding now and then was credited to the belief the list had been substantially oversold

Conspicuous on the relapse were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U S Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda Kennecott, American Can, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Phelps Dodge and Standard Oil (NJ).

TEST NEAR FOR COAL FOREMEN

Court Will Decide Right of Supervisors in Union.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A test of the government's right to bargain with a foremen's union in the soft coal industry moved nearer a showdown today amid signs that federal operation of the seized mines would continue through the winter.

The U S circuit court of appeals set Oct 14 for a hearing on the government's right to recognize the United Mine Workers (AFL) as bargaining agent for supervisory employes in four mines of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company

The specific question is a J & L request to restrain Fuel Administrator J. A Krug from continuing in effect a government-UMW contract covering J & L asistant mine foremen, fire bosses and other supervisory personnel

The company wants the court to throw out this contract on grounds foremen are a part of management and should not have bargaining rights in independent or production unions

The court has no jurisdiction over the broader question of the right of the National Labor Relations board to require employers to bargain with foremen's unions An independent action is now underway in connection with UMW charges against J & L for refusal to bargain

The failure to break the deadlock between the coal industry and the UMW over supervisors' unionization was reported a deciding factor in the resignation of Adm Ben Moreell as coal mines administrator The resignation was accepted by Krug to become effective Sept 30

DELINQUENCY IN OHIO DECREASES

Restoration of Normal Home Life Aids Trend.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Juvenile delinquency in Ohio last year was down 17 per cent from the peak year of 1943, the annual report of the state bureau of juvenile research disclosed today

The juvenile problem also improved during the first half of this year with a decrease of 14 per cent as compared with the first six months of 1945, according to state research sociologist Richard Allaman

The bureau's report also revealed that in the overall picture for the last three years, the girls' decrease in juvenile delinquency was sharper than for the boys

"The decline of juvenile delinquency from its war-time high certainly can be attributed in some part to the return of soldier-fathers and mothers from defense plant jobs" Dr Peris Simmons, chief psychologist at the state bureau, commented

The 1945 total for boys' cases as compared to the 1943 record number showed a decrease of 10 per cent while the girls' cases fell off 42 per cent.

Total delinquency cases dropped from 8 900 cases in the first half of 1945 to 7,679 cases during the same period this year, according to the bureau's report

Large and small counties had the same rate of decrease in total cases and boys' cases but girls' cases dropped more in small than in larger counties, it was stated

However, the decrease for the first half of this year was more pronounced in boys' cases

Boys delinquency cases alone—which are the larger part of the total—amounted to 7123 in the first half of 1945 and 6 054 in the same period this year, a decrease of 15 per cent

Girls' delinquency cases dropped from 1 777 cases for the first half of 1945 to 1,624 cases for the first six months of 1946 A drop of 152 cases or nine per cent

Meanwhile, the number of cases that reach Ohio's juvenile courts because of neglect and dependency remains an increasing problem, according to Allaman

The total number of cases in this category reached a record high last year for the six years the bureau has been collecting statistics

Boys' cases were down one per cent last year compared to 1944 but still totalled 39 per cent more than the 1940 figure Girls dependency and neglect cases jumped 10 per cent last year over 1944 the highest previous total

REDS CREEP IN CIVIL SERVICE, SAYS RANDOLPH

Congressman Reports Grave Communist Infiltration in Government Posts.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Chairman Jennings Randolph, D., W. Va., of the house civil service committee charged today that "Communists and other totalitarians" have infiltrated the federal civil service to pry out secret information for foreign governments.

"Our committee feels this is a problem of serious proportions and that it is growing progressively worse," Randolph said in an interview after a consultation with President Truman. "These groups are trying to infiltrate wherever the information is."

Randolph, who has never been considered a "Red baiter," stressed repeatedly that he was not calling for a "witch hunt," that his charges were based on a study made by his committee prior to congressional adjournment.

"I do not like to be an alarmist but these grops are well-organized and cleverly handled and the government is without adequate protection," he said.

Jennings said President Truman promised to give "immediate attention" to committee proposals that an interdepartmental committee be set up to study the problem. This committee would include representatives from the justice, war, navy, state and treasury departments and from the civil service commission.

"These agencies all have investigative staffs and should be able to work out some method of giving the government adequate protection against subversive employes who have a loyalty to governments other than their own," he said.

"These groups to which I am referring feel they owe a loyalty to other governments. And naturally, since they are attempting to get in spots where they can obtain information, they represent a real danger."

He said thorough check on government employes should be a "protection" to most people in civil service.

"I do not want the finger of suspicion pointed at any employe who may be a liberal or who may entertain ideas somewhat at a variance with those of the majority," he said. "I am interested solely in protecting the government from groups who are disloyal and who are seeking to import ideologies from foreign lands."

He said the issue is "one primarily of procedure—of finding adequate methods of protection." At the very least, he added, there should be a "fingerprint and name check" of civil service employes.

Ashland Fair Gives Thrill

she pointed at an automobile and cried, "Look at the horse in the back seat!"

Everybody laughed again but this time the laugh was on the crowd. The automobile actually contained a pony riding in the back seat.

The pony's name was "Sugar". It belonged to William Petty, 220 West 11th street, Ashland. The pony, an eight-year-old, will be shown tomorrow in the pony show. Petty had transported "Sugar" to the fair in the back seat of his car.

Dad Solves Crisis.

Going on to another building, Jennie saw some ducks, and there fascination really set in.

"Daddy, I want one!" she cried. "I just simply have to have one of them."

This crisis was solved when Moore quickly promised rides on the pony, the merry-go-round, or anything else Jennie's heart might desire.

Jennie had three rides on the merry-go-round, one on the ponies, one in a midget automobile, and one on the miniature train.

End of Busy Day.

Finally Jennie began to tire—to say nothing of the condition of Mr. and Mrs. Moore. However, she wanted one look at the "race track."

The trio arrived there just in time to see part of Jimmy Lynch's thrill show, one of yesterday's attractions.

While everyone else shuddered as one of Lynch's daredevils crashed a car into the center of the others, Jennie yelled, "Wheeee! I'll bet that would be fun."

Fair Ends Saturday.

Yesterday's program included judging in grains, seeds, vegetables, women's division, community clubs, and Junior fair, livestock excepted. Other attractions were concert by the Ashland college band, roping acts, horsemanship exhibition, scooter races, and a saddle horse show in the coliseum

Today's program included judging in horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, and Junior fair livestock. Also a band concert, harness races, chariot and pony races, and team pulling and tug-of-war contests before the grandstand Pony saddle classes will be judged in the coliseum.

The fair, which will continue through Saturday, is being held at the Ashland county fairground, just west of Ashland on Route 42.

Busy-Until-Snow Program Planned

A program of road work to keep his crew of 20 men busy "until the first heavy snow falls" was mapped today by County Engineer Walter E. Rusk.

He said there is a "heavy mileage" of brush clearing to do, some 10 miles of ditches to be cleaned, about 400 new guard rail posts to be sunk, and 20 to 25 dozen road marker signs to be erected.

"We have a backlog of two to three years' work in these items and we're going to try to make a big dent in it this fall and winter," he said "The unusually dry summer has enabled us to complete our road resurfacing and grading program three to four weeks earlier than usual and will give us more time for these jobs."

SEEK HOUSING FUNDS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Crawford, Morrow and Noble counties applied to State Treasurer Don H. Ebright today for their proportionate shares of the state's six million dollar veterans' emergency housing fund. Crawford asked $30,897; Morrow, $13,590, and Noble, $12,670. To date 63 counties have requisitioned $5,134,965.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R., Ia., today joined in the Republican demands for congress to abolish OPA in advance of its scheduled June 30 expiration. He suggested Jan. 1 as a suitable liquidation date with provisions to continue rent controls by federal housing officials.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1946

Intriguing thought: In 53 years, 3 months and 12 days from now it will be Jan. 1, 2000.

It seems odd to be thankful that Harry Truman, instead of Henry Wallace, was nominated for vice president in 1944.

Schools and colleges are overcrowded—indicating that, with conditions as they are, many people are realizing that there is still something to be learned.

Muffler Placed On Blatant Wallace

EXCEPT that Henry Wallace has been temporarily silenced in his announced determination to continue speechmaking in behalf of his Russian-tainted foreign policy, little appears to have been accomplished during his two-hour and 20-minute conference with President Truman yesterday afternoon.

Silencing Wallace may be considered a fair achievement, but that he is to continue as a member of the president's cabinet, in the important post of secretary of commerce, will undoubtedly be misunderstood by the leadership of other countries in which his ill-advised Madison Square Garden speech of a week ago was either frowned upon or cheered, depending on the attitude of critics.

The rally at which Wallace spoke last week introduced the political angle of opposing the re-election of Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York, and was also Communist promoted, which made it particularly inappropriate to bring up the matter of foreign policy, as this is a subject on which there had been very general agreement to leave out of partisan politics.

While it appears that yesterday's conference leaves Wallace free to "help" the Democratic party by making speeches during the campaign, and to express his views on domestic subjects, he is instructed to keep his mouth shut on foreign affairs, and, as a result of this restraint, he now announces that scheduled speeches are cancelled and that, for the time being, he will not talk about anything—which is probably just as well.

There remains, however, the unsatisfactory situation of Wallace continuing in the cabinet. Can't something else be found for him to do in less responsible public service, on which he seems dependent for a livelihood?

Favor Decontrol of Meat Prices

WHAT seems like a rapid approach to a crisis has developed in connection with the artificial meat shortage that has come about since OPA restoration of price controls on what millions of people regard as essential food.

Yesterday's News-Journal report of opinions expressed by heads of six women's organizations indicated a degree of unanimity that may not extend to all observers of the present local and national situation, but there is reason to believe that preference for abolition of OPA meat price controls applies to a substantial majority of people who have given thought to the muddle that has resulted from inept experimentation, and the high cost involved in maintaining such an ineffective agency as the peace-time OPA has shown itself to be.

Flow of livestock to markets during the temporary suspension of OPA ceilings gave proof of the plentifulness of a withheld supply, and it cannot be doubted that such manipulation is again the cause of an appearance of scarcity and that removal of price controls would quickly establish a sufficient balance between supply and demand to bring a return of normal buying at prices commensurate with the present stage of inflation—a considerable percentage higher than pre-war levels.

Just how this can be quickly accomplished, in the face of bickering on the subject that has been going on in Washington, is not clear, but if majority opinion can be brought to the notice of those who do the deciding, it should surely have some influence on President Truman and his administrative associates.

Night Danger On Mansfield Streets

WHILE Mansfield, like other cities, is at no time free from a small percentage of the lawless element which endangers the life and safety of other persons, there has been a constant effort here to hold this usually transient criminal class to a minimum.

A series of recent night attacks on women and men has caused Chief of Police Bates to issue a warning: "Don't walk alone after dark in unlighted, sparsely-populated sections of the city," and he asks that prompt report be made to the police of any persons thought to be suspicious.

A situation has existed in Mansfield for many years in which certain sections of the city have gained notoriety as being particularly dangerous during the nighttime, and it is to the discredit of reputable residents of these areas that they do not take steps to correct a condition which reflects on the entire city.

It is also noteworthy that a high percentage of what is termed "juvenile delinquency" has its origin in areas that require closest police surveillance. A checkup on tolerated conditions that contribute to criminal activities would appear timely.

Carpeting Among 'Scarce' Items

THE HOUSEHOLD that has carpeting next on the list of things to buy might just as well cross it off for a while. The rug in the living room may be shabby, it may even be worn into holes, but the carpet manufacturers can offer little hope for a new one.

Production of rugs is 33 per cent above last year's, but it's still only 65 per cent of the 1941 quantity. There's enough wool by now, but far from enough labor in the industry. And the rugs that are made are grabbed so fast by people who have been waiting several years to perk up the house, that a few hours after a store unpacks a shipment they're all sold.

Moreover, some statistician has figured out that to supply the present needs of hotels, all the carpet mills in the country would have to work full time for four years. Replacing threadbare carpets in theaters and apartment houses would swallow up the production of another two years.

Word comes that an ex-GI in another Ohio city has a house all completed—except for one side—which seems like doing right well, under the circumstances.

It is the Emporia Gazette that points out: "The great proletariat has become the meatless vegetariat."

An unexplained mystery is how the "glove compartment" of a car ever got that name.

Wallace Tells Truman Atom Bomb Cause of Worry In Soviet Russia

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It is unusual in any administration for a cabinet member outside the state department to make a speech on foreign policy. But it is more than unusual for him to express a policy—especially with the o.k. of the president which differs from that of the secretary of state.

The fact that Henry Wallace was able to persuade President Truman to approve his Russian-appeasement speech in New York was due in large part to a comprehensive and confidential letter Wallace wrote to Truman setting forth the mistakes of our Russian policy.

This column has obtained a copy of the secret Wallace letter, and, because of the importance of the question involved, is publishing the essential portions. Yesterday, Wallace explained why Russian nerves were on edge over the atomic bomb. Major portions of the letter to Truman continue as follows:

"Russia has two cards which she can use in negotiating with us: (1) our lack of information on the state of her scientific and technical progress on atomic energy and (2) our ignorance of her uranium and thorium resources.

"Insistence on our part that the games must be played our way will only lead to a deadlock. The Russians will redouble their efforts to manufacture bombs, and they may also decide to expand their 'security zone' in a serious way. Up to now, their efforts to develop a security zone in eastern Europe and in the Middle East are small change compared with our air bases in Greenland, Okinawa and many other places thousands of miles from our shores.

"We may feel very self-righteous if we refuse to budge on our plan and the Russians refuse to accept it, but that means only one thing—the atomic armament race is on in deadly earnest.

"I am convinced therefore that if we are to achieve our hopes of negotiating a treaty which will result in effective international atomic disarmament we must abandon the impractical form of the 'step-by-step' idea which was presented to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. We must be prepared to reach an agreement which will commit us to disclosing information and destroying our bombs at a specified time, rather than at our unfettered discretion. If we are willing to negotiate on this basis, I believe the Russians will also negotiate seriously with a view to reaching an agreement.

"There can be, of course, no absolute assurance the Russians will finally agree to a workable plan if we adopt this view. They may prefer to stall until they also have bombs and can negotiate on a more equal basis, not realizing the danger to themselves as well as the rest of the world. But we must make the effort to head off the atomic bomb race

Another War Coming?

"On the whole, as we look beneath the surface in late 1946, our actions and those of the Western powers in general carry with them the ultimate danger of a third World war—this time an atomic World war. As the strongest single nation, and the nation whose leadership is followed by the entire world with the exception of Russia, I believe that we have the opportunity to lead the world to peace.

"In general there are two overall points of view which can be taken in approaching the problem of the United States-Russian relations. The first is that it is not possible to get along with the Russians and therefore war is inevitable. The second is that war with Russia would bring catastrophe to all mankind, and therefore we must find a way of living in peace. It is clear that our own welfare as well as that of the entire world requires that we maintain the latter point of view.

How to Woo Russia.

"I should list the factors which make for Russian distrust of the United States and of the Western world as follows: The first is Russian history, which we must take into account because it is the setting in which Russians see all actions and policies of the rest of the world.

"Russian history for over a thousand years has been a succession of attempts, often unsuccessful, to resist invasion and conquest—by the Mongols, the Turks, the Swedes, the Germans and the Poles. The scant thirty years of the existence of the Soviet government has in Russian eyes been a continuation of their historical struggle for national existence.

"Second, it follows that to the Russians all of the defense and security measures of the Western powers seem to have an aggressive intent. Our actions to expand our military security system—such steps as extending the Monroe Doctrine to include the arming of the Western Hemisphere nations, our present monopoly of the atomic bomb, our interest in outlying bases and our general support of the British Empire—appear to them as going far beyond the requirements of defense. From the Russian point of view, also, the granting of a loan to Britain and the lack of tangible results on their request to borrow may be regarded as another evidence of strengthening of an anti-Soviet bloc.

"Finally, our resistance to her attempts to obtain warm water ports and her own security system in the form of 'friendly' neighboring states seems from the Russian point of view, to clinch the case.

After twenty-five years of isolation and after having achieved the status of a major power, Russia believes that she is entitled to recognition of her new status.

"Our interest in establishing democracy in eastern Europe, where democracy by and large has never existed, seems to her an attempt to re-establish the encirclement of unfriendly neighbors which was created after the last war and which might serve as a springboard of still another effort to destroy her.

Panama vs. Dardanelles.

"Most of us are firmly convinced of the soundness of our position when we suggest the internationalization and defortification of the Danube or of the Dardanelles, but we would be horrified and angered by any Russian counter-proposal that would involve also the internationalizing and disarming of Suez or Panama. We must recognize that to the Russians these seem to be identical situations.

"We should make an effort to counteract the irrational fear of Russia which is being systematically built up in the American people by certain individuals and publications. The slogan that communism and capitalism, regimentation and democracy, cannot continue to exist in the same world is, from a historical point of view, pure propaganda.

"Several religious doctrines, all claiming to be the only true gospel and salvation, have existed side by side with a reasonable degree of tolerance for centuries.

"This country was for the first half of its national life a democratic island in a world dominated by absolute governments.

"We should not act as if we too felt that we were threatened in today's world. We are by far the most powerful nation in the world, the only Allied nation which came out of the war without devastation and much stronger than before the war. Any talk on our part about the need for strengthening our defenses further is bound to appear hypocritical to other nations."

Sense of Insecurity Pervades the Nation.

(Editor's Note: Kenneth L. Dixon has just completed a seven-month, 15,000-mile tour of America. Following is one of a series of articles based on his conclusions after talking to thousands of people in more than 40 states.)

WASHINGTON—Confusion . . . suspicion . . . a sense of insecurity . . . Whether these three "miseries of the mind" are symptoms of malignant mental diseases or merely growing pains of the national brain today is anybody's guess.

But whichever they are, you find them everywhere across the country where Americans are groping thoughtfully—albeit sometimes clumsily—to find their place in an uneasy postwar world.

No matter to whom you talk—bricklayer or banker, minister or miner—those symptoms inevitably seep into the conversation. You sense them in the atmosphere, much in the same way you could detect the invisible presence of bleak despair during depression days.

And, just as you could count the week's total of window-jumping suicides and bank failures then, today you can find plenty of concrete signs charting the nation's nervous unease.

If you're traveling, you find yourself right in the middle of it—an unwilling member of a mighty migration—caught in the restless shifting of more than 20 million people who still are on the move more than a year after the war's end.

You can check the rising rate of thoughtless, high-strung type of crime which already has outstripped even the most pessimistic official predictions. Or you can look at the unprecedented divorce rate which is destroying one marriage for every three currently recorded.

There are many other much-publicized signs. But just talking to people daily gives you more dramatically personal examples of the seething confusion, suspicion and unease.

When President Truman proposed stringent anti-strike legislation a few months ago, this correspondent was traveling in the southwest. For 24 hours, there was nothing but approval of his action from people in filling station, stores, garages and hotels.

Then, suddenly and seemingly unaccountably, the sentiment reversed. Within two or three more days, the criticism seemed as unanimous as the initial approval had been—from the same general groups of people, and often from the same identical individuals.

On international subjects, the same sort of thing happened repeatedly. The same man who lauded the Russians yesterday and condemned the British would high-jump the fence today and damn the Soviets, instead—or both.

And, just to further confuse the conversation, he might quite well add that he had no faith whatever in our own diplomats and military leaders and conclude with the suspicion that war is sneaking up on our blind side again.

That same sort of shifting suspicion showed itself as strongly in questions much closer to the average individual's life. Wandering along the west coast when OPA went into its "recess" period, I found people changing their minds overnight as to whether it was a good or bad development.

Behind the growing sense of insecurity it was easy to smell the presence of the atom bomb. In Chicago, a veteran and economic expert explained it this way:

"Once you were pretty sure that by hard work most of your life and hard fighting perhaps once in your life you could guarantee some permanent sort of security for your family. The atom bomb eliminated that hope—so people are seeking frantically for a substitute for security . . . something to supplant their lost faith in the future."

Perhaps so. Certainly the country seems shot full of mental confusion, suspicion and instability.

But at least, it is not blindly following the pat phrases of some would-be dictator, nor lulling itself to sleep with dogmatic creeds.

Foreign Policy Not "Private Possession."

WASHINGTON — There's been an unusual amount of lather whipped up over Henry Wallace's essay into and about the direction our foreign policy has taken—as was expected, both by Mr. Wallace and those who knew what he was driving at.

Alsd some nonsense.

The secretary of commerce, former vice president and secretary of agriculture never has been an orthodox fellow. He does not follow protocol. He breaks rudely over the traces ever so often. He is not afraid to speak out when he feels there is something the public ought to know.

Of late he had sensed the uneasiness among the people over the course of our foreign policy and the frustration caused by the talk about war with Russia.

He gave notice to this feeling, for he recognizes that foreign policy in these days affects every one of us directly, and is not a pretty little parlor game for the diplomats, as some of them still seem to think.

He spoke from earnest conviction.

The noisy reaction includes the suggestion that Mr. Wallace had no right to speak out. Other than the fact that President Truman himself approved his right to speak, it might be pointed out that, from the standpoint of knowledge and experience, Mr. Wallace had every right.

It may have been forgotten or overlooked, but the fact is that Mr. Wallace has been closer to the development of foreign policy in the last dozen critical years than anybody else now in the top ranks of government. He has been on the inside. He has been in a position to know, and he has kept himself informed.

For that reason he had not only the right to speak out, but the duty to speak out, even if his forthright talking disturbed some of our diplomats and our British friends.

From some of the reaction, too, it might appear that our foreign policy is the private possession of a handful of people—the president, the secretary of state, a couple of senators, and a few top officials at the state department.

Don't the people have an interest? If what our diplomats do heads us into war, it is the people who have to fight it and suffer it. It is not only right, but proper, that somebody should be conscious of that.

President Truman was forced to explain that he hadn't approved the Wallace speech. But he approved the commerce secretary's right to make it. Mr. Wallace is planning to make more, either in the cabinet or out. He has validly raised for consideration in this country the question of our foreign policy. His speech accomplished that. Such an inquiry is healthy at this juncture.

If our policy has taken a turn contrary to our peace objectives throughout the world, it is just as well to find out about it now before it is too late.

There is too much at stake for all of us.

Truman Becomes "Victim of Circumstances."

WASHINGTON — Pressing a single accidental key on the console of the vast organ of power and influence that is the presidency, the man in the White House has the discord flung back at him from all over the world. That is a lesson which President Truman has great difficulty in learning.

The loud echoes of the Henry Wallace speech on foreign policy were accidental That is now painfully clear. But another and earlier accident contributed not a little toward shaping our present policy on Soviet Russia, and this is a good time to examine the meaning of that other accident.

When Winston Churchill made his famous speech at Fulton, Mo., President Truman sat on the platform beside him. Thereby, in spite of everything he said to the contrary, the president seemed to be endorsing Churchill's "iron curtain" speech.

That was not the president's intention. In fact, he felt a certain rancor and resentment at having been put in that position. He was just sitting there when the gun was fired, and yet he seemed to get part of the blame, or credit, for what that blast did.

The background is revealing. It happens that the president's military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry W. Vaughn, is a graduate of Westminister college at Fulton. Trying to get Churchill as a speaker, the college enlisted the the help of this prominent alumnus. On the letter that Vaughn sent to Churchill, enclosing the invitation from the college, the president wrote:

"If you go out, I'll go out with you."

One was to do honor to a great had been fascinated by Churchill's magic gift of talk. He looked forward to spending a day or two with him.

After the Fulton speech, the repercussions sounded from one pole to the other. When he was asked if he had read the Churchill address in advance of its delivery, the president replied with an emphatic "no". He told his intimates that he had not even discussed the contents of the speech with his guest.

Whatever the circumstances, the fact remains that our firm policy toward the Soviet Union dates more or less from the Churchill speech.

Just two months before that speech, Byrnes had been in Mossow at the foreign ministers' conference and he had been accused by some, on his return, of "appeasing" Russia. After March 5th, the current began to flow in the opposite direction.

How much the accident of President Truman's appearing at Fulton had to do with that change, no one can accurately estimate, but certainly it was a fact.

Perhaps the change that came after Fulton was to the best interests of the United States. We had been drifting. Some sort of show-down was inevitable sooner or later.

But the point I want to make here is that it should not have come through an accident or by indirection. It should have come as a deliberate and calculated step taken after mature consideration.

The man who sits at the White House console must know the tune he wants to play.

Farmer's Diary: "Village Street Fair."

FOR the first time since the war—having missed four years—our village is celebrating with its annual street fair. Our two younger boys do not remember the last one, so there was much excited comment at our home when merry-go-round, ferris wheel, octopus and suchlike moved into our main business district. Main street was roped off, exhibits set up in the streets and park and outdoor movie alley. And—best, from the small boy's view—schools declared a two-day vacation.

They were doing the chores when I arrived home—a whole hour early. A hot supper was on the table, but they tasted lightly of it. The last boy in from the barn remarked that he distinctly heard the music start, way across the hill, and we should all hurry or we'd be too late to see everything.

We parked the old car, and I gave the two older boys some money and sent them on their way. I walked between the two younger lads. We joined the throng about the displays and moved down slowly beneath the bright lights toward the sound of gay music. We rode the merry-go-round and the ferris wheel. The octopus, they thought, would make me seasick. When we reached the highest point of the big wheel, the youngest pushed his tousled head against my arm—"We're terrible high — we're as high as the tallest building. Look at all the lights and all the people . . . gee, I can hardly breathe. My stomach drops out of place whenever we go down so fast!"

We saw the prize sheep, hogs and cattle in the large tent—some with blue tags, some with red. The stock was well groomed and of fine quality. Fruits and vegetables on long tables seemed very abundant. Our neighbor to the south had arranged two hives of bees under glass.

There was a program of acrobatics on a trapeze, a tight rope walker who balanced with a large white umbrella, and dancing in the central park with music furnished by an orchestra of local young people. On Saturday a horse show was the featured part, on Friday the homecoming football game . . . retail liquor stores were closed. Brawls and drunken tragedies have no encouragement, at such a time.

EXPECT 350 AT AREA SAFETY MEET OCT. 23

Chamber and Ohio Industrial Commission Plan Annual Session in Mansfield.

More than 350 industrial safety directors, personnel managers, municipal authorities, and civic groups interested in the promotion of safety are expected to attend the second annual Regional Safety conference to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Oct. 23, John G. Routzon, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today.

The one-day conference is sponsored annually by the Chamber of Commerce Safety council and the division of safety and hygiene of the Industrial commission of Ohio.

Noted authorities on industrial, home, school, and traffic safety will appear as speakers during the conference. Principal banquet speaker will be Dr. Phillips Thomas, noted research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric corporation, Pittsburgh.

Representatives from Ashland, Galion, Loudonville, Crestline, Mt. Vernon, Bucyrus, Mt. Gilead, Plymouth, and Mansfield will attend the conference, Routzon said.

Harry W. Dailey is chairman of the Safety council.

OPA Suspends 9 Meat Dealers

J. H. Dickson, Mansfield, was among nine northern Ohio meat dealers who today were suspended from slaughtering for 30 days because they allegedly exceeded their slaughtering quotas. The order was issued by the OPA in Cleveland.

The operators were charged with killing livestock beyond their quota limitations, thus drawing from supplies allocated to other areas, creating shortages elsewhere. Excesses charged against Dickson during May and June were 54,000 pounds of beef, 5,700 pounds of calves, and 1,550 pounds of hogs.

SEEK SHORTER HOURS

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Highway Patrolmen have petitioned their superintendent, Col. George Mingle, for a reduction of working hours so they can spend more time with their families. The petition was signed by about 70 percent of the patrolmen, who have two days a week free and are on call 24 hours a day the rest of the time.

Fish Don't Cry For Lost Coins

Without a single protest from the gold fish, workmen today recovered $2.62 in coins from Central park's pool.

It was the annual pool-cleaning time and the usual number of sidewalk foremen turned out to "supervise" the task.

Other items recovered included tacks, screws, bottles and a child's bracelet bearing its owner's name.

Frank R. Burton, park superintendent, said the child may have the bracelet by calling at his residence, 814 Lexington avenue.

Burton insisted the fish appeared in good condition and not the least disturbed by the loss of their $2.62.

Wallace Won't Talk—Even to Help In Democrat Campaign

talks. The two men met alone at first.

Mr. Truman told Wallace he wanted above everything to have him remain in the cabinet but that his speeches were disturbing a very delicate situation in Paris. They also were disturbing Byrnes who was expected to resign if Wallace continued.

Mr. Truman said that if Wallace would avoid foreign policy speeches it would be in the national interest. But he urged Wallace to continue in the campaign to discuss domestic issues.

Wallace bluntly rejected that idea. He later told reporters he had come to the conclusion that he couldn't speak at all because he was an honest man. He told Mr. Truman he would not speak unless he could discuss foreign policy. Mr. Truman could not permit that, to keep Byrnes in the cabinet, and maintain the bi-partisan approach to foreign policy which the administration has sought in the past few months.

Later Mr. Truman summoned White House Secretary Charles G. Ross to urge Wallace to continue in the campaign where he is the administration's star performer before left wing audiences. Ross failed, too. Wallace is walking out on the Democrats in their most critical congressional campaign since 1918.

The Paris conference is expected to end in about five weeks. If Wallace then resumes his campaign against administration foreign policy, Byrnes will be more than ever tempted to resign. After next November's election Mr. Truman might be persuaded to let Byrnes go and hang on to Wallace if those were the inescapable alternatives.

Wallace is the administration's tie with the powerful left wing whose support it must have to hold control of congress this year and to win the White House in 1948.

END NEAR IN TRUCK DISPUTE

Supplies Roll Into New York as Firms Sign Contracts.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Trucks started to roll today in New York, but the 19-day-old dispute between AFL teamsters and truck operators, which has already cost the world's largest city an estimated $400,000,000, was not entirely settled.

Union leaders said that 722 of the 1,570 firms involved had signed contracts providing for a 31-cent-an-hour increase and reduction in working hours. They estimated that 4,500 trucks were on the road.

The union men said that competition from employers who have signed the new contract would force the others into line, but representatives of the big truck operators insisted they would not yield without arbitration of the dispute.

The operators still holding out are represented by the Motor Carrier association of New York and the New York State Motor Truck association.

Despite the agreement by some of the operators, New York was still in a serious predicament for food, newsprint and other vital supplies. More than 700 A. and P. and Safeway stores are still closed and business leaders agreed that prolonged continuation of the strike could put New York in a crucial position.

Let the season change and a woman turns as instinctively to a new hat as the birds to a southern climate. Left above, Mrs. J. H. Reynard of Huron considers a smart, forward tilting black felt with curled ostrich plume trim as Mrs. A. Manross, head of the Kobacker millinery department, adjusts the tilt.

Feathers again attract the feminine eye as Mrs. Manross, at the right, shows a delicate pink maribou pouf to Mrs. James Newlon, 130 Park avenue east.

Hats Feature Skyward Tilt, Lots of Feathers, Ribbons

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Come wars, peace, famine, pestilence, women's hats will still hold their place in society.

And it's a high society they're hitting this fall, as crowns tilt upward, feathers curl gracefully over the brim or around the ear, and ribbons and jewelled motifs brighten the new styles.

There's the high-crowned, brow-baring turban type, often studded with a jewelled ornament or sporting a huge satin bow just behind the right ear, and interestingly off-center.

Mrs. A. Manross, head of the Kobacker millinery department, sees black as the leading color for early fall, and the high-crowned plume-trimmed, drapes or jewelled hats headlining the fashions.

"Black is our best seller," Mrs. Manross added. "Brown is second choice and gray and smoke white follow in line."

Feathers—either alone or as trimming — hold a predominant place in the hat world. Feather treatment on hats can be used to suit any costume and fit in with any need. For proof of this there's the long, sturdy looking turkey feathers used on sport models and berets ideal for football season and for shopping.

Next comes the dressier type feathers, such as coq, goura, both soft and lacquered ostrich and vulture tail. These can be worked into dainty little pouf hats made entirely of feathers, often in delicate pinks or dressy black, that set forward on the brow and are perfect with cocktail attire.

Also high on the list of trimmings on the new fall modes is the use of gold braid and gold lace, most effective on the darker felts. Nailheads, long used for dress and coat trim, are also in the picture.

Guided Missiles Still Experimental

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Responsible military officers voiced fears today that the armed forces, however inadvertently, have misled the public about our guided missile development program.

Despite a rash of reports of fantastic new weapons in the works, the fact is the nation does not have a single guided missile, rocket or supersonic (faster than sound) plane to use if war comes tomorrow. Furthermore, it may be years—perhaps five, 10 or more—before such weapons are available on a scale for effective use in combat.

'It's Horse Meat—So What,' Says New Jersey Shop Owner

NEWARK, N. J.—(U.P.)—Horse meat is sweeter than beef, but you probably won't know the difference if you keep your salt shaker handy.

Choose a horse between four and six years old (one that didn't work too hard for a living) if you're really hungry. That's the best age for eating.

The above statements may be credited to Sam Stromeyer, who sells filet mignons, porterhouses, and sirloins—all from horse flesh.

His shop, the Whirlaway Meat company, will sell 47,000 pounds of meat this week. Next week, minus the trucking strike, he expects to hit 60,000 pounds.

"So it's horse meat," Stromeyer said, "and so what? We never try to hide it. The first time people come in to order with their noses up in the air. On the second trip, they're more respectful."

Stromeyer, 41 and slightly plump, deals with at least 250 housewives a day.

"They come from all over," he said. "They come from Manhattan, Jersey, Connecticut, and even from Brooklyn."

Stromeyer, who was an automobile dealer back in 1941 when he decided that his present business looked more inviting, sells only for human consumption.

"I used to sell 5,000 pounds every other week for dog food," he explained, "but I quit. People were more particular about their dogs than about themselves.

"They would order a roast and then yell, 'Now be sure that you cut off all the fat'."

Stromeyer claims that horse meat has 12 per cent more protein content than beef, and more gravy.

"It's the cleanest meat that you can buy," he said. "Because the horse is the cleanest animal. He eats only grain or oats. He won't even drink out of the same bucket after another horse, unless they put fresh water in it."

Stromeyer has nothing against horses—he even likes to see them run—but he figures he can't help it if his customers get hungry.

"They come from all over," he said. "They come from Ontario, Ohio, and the west," he said. "The best cut is the filet mignon, from inside the loin. Second best, I think, is the porterhouse. And I rate the sirloin third."

OPA ceiling prices stipulate that horse meat without bone must retail at 20 cents a pound, meat with bone sell at 16 cents a pound, while ground meat sells at 21 cents.

"It just shows how stupid OPA can be," Stromeyer said. "I went to Washington and explained to those people that a filet should sell for more than hamburger steak, but it didn't do any good."

The meat costs him $8.75 per 100 pounds in carload lots.

"People always ask me why I named my place after Whirlaway," Stromeyer said. "I tell them that if I ever make as much money as he did, I'll quit."

There's a rival horse meat shop in Newark named for Man o' War.

Does Stromeyer eat horse meat himself?

"I do," he said, "when I want some meat."

Does he like it as well as he likes beef?

Stromeyer was frank:

"Not if the beef is a prime cut—that's the best meat of all."

RATTLER NO MATCH

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—(AP)—Mrs. B. J. Apple said her pet Persian cat was creeping through grass near her home when a three-foot rattlesnake struck at the animal but missed. The cat pounced on the snake, seizing it just behind the head, killed the reptile and dragged it proudly to her door, Mrs. Apple reported.

IN SIZING up his problem, a declarer should always think of the vital matter of entries into his own hand or the dummy. Examining each suit for its possibilities along this line will sometimes disclose an entry, or at least a possible one, which was not at first apparent. That applies especially to the trump suit. One vital fact is the question of what card to use for ruffing when the declarer first gets the lead. It may pay him to use a fairly high trump so that he can keep a lower one than the dummy's highest.

West paid no attention to his partner's plays of the 6 and 7 on his club K and Q, but led his club A to the third trick, when a heart switch would have set the contract muy pronto. His lack of observation, or of obedience to the signals, gave South a chance to make his contract, and he should have done so. But he did not.

He ruffed the third club in the most obvious way with the spade 8, and in that very moment his chance flew out the window. Next he scored the spade A and K, which dropped the Q. All at once he realized that, if he had a smaller trump than the dummy's 9, he would have been sure to make his contract. He did the best he could then, by taking the diamond A and K, then leading a heart. The K and A set him, the Q was ruffed in dummy, he ruffed the diamond Q with the spade 10 and took the last two tricks with the spade J and heart J.

Foresight would have told South to ruff the third club with the spade 10 to keep the 8. Then, after the top two trumps, dropping the Q, he could have scored two top diamonds and led the spade 8 to the 9, enabling him to finish with good diamonds.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

If you are bothered by the memory of some embarrassing moment of your own, pause for a second to consider the plight of a recent city commissioner out West.

Chosen honorary foreman of a widely-ballyhooed rodeo, he made a spectacular first-night entry on a snow-white charger, circled the arena while the city's notables and cowboy performers applauded politely, and pulled up before a battery of microphones—where the horse promptly threw him on his face.

"Let's see if we can locate the cause of your neurosis," said the psychoanalyst to the harassed soul before him. "What kind of work do you do?"

"I sort oranges," was the reply "All day, oranges keep pouring down a chute. I stand at the bottom and sort them. Big oranges go into a crate at one side, little ones into a crate on the other, medium ones into a crate in the center."

"But certainly there's nothing in that to upset you," said the psychoanalyst "It sounds easy enough to me."

"Easy!" cried the patient. Don't you realize it means decisions! decisions! decisions!—all day long!"

Barclay On Bridge

IN SIZING up his problem, a declarer should always think of the vital matter of entries into his own hand or the dummy. Examining each suit for its possibilities along this line will sometimes disclose an entry, or at least a possible one, which was not at first apparent. That applies especially to the trump suit. One vital fact is the question of what card to use for ruffing when the declarer first gets the lead. It may pay him to use a fairly high trump so that he can keep a lower one than the dummy's highest.

West paid no attention to his partner's plays of the 6 and 7 on his club K and Q, but led his club A to the third trick, when a heart switch would have set the contract muy pronto. His lack of observation, or of obedience to the signals, gave South a chance to make his contract, and he should have done so. But he did not.

He ruffed the third club in the most obvious way with the spade 8, and in that very moment his chance flew out the window. Next he scored the spade A and K, which dropped the Q. All at once he realized that, if he had a smaller trump than the dummy's 9, he would have been sure to make his contract. He did the best he could then, by taking the diamond A and K, then leading a heart. The K and A set him, the Q was ruffed in dummy, he ruffed the diamond Q with the spade 10 and took the last two tricks with the spade J and heart J.

Foresight would have told South to ruff the third club with the spade 10 to keep the 8. Then, after the top two trumps, droping the Q, he could have scored two top diamonds and led the spade 8 to the 9, enabling him to finish with good diamonds.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

If you are bothered by the memory of some embarrassing moment of your own, pause for a second to consider the plight of a recent city commissioner out West.

Chosen honorary foreman of a widely-ballyhooed rodeo, he made a spectacular first-night entry on a snow-white charger, circled the arena while the city's notables and cowboy performers applauded politely, and pulled up before a battery of microphones—where the horse promptly threw him on his face.

"Let's see if we can locate the cause of your neurosis," said the psychoanalyst to the harassed soul before him. "What kind of work do you do?"

"I sort oranges," was the reply. "All day, oranges keep pouring down a chute. I stand at the bottom and sort them. Big oranges go into a crate at one side, little ones into a crate on the other, medium ones into a crate in the center."

"But certainly there's nothing in that to upset you," said the psychoanalyst. "It sounds easy enough to me."

"Easy!" cried the patient. Don't you realize it means decisions! decisions! decisions!—all day long!"

Research work indicates new hybrid corns will be bred to supply more corn oil when processed.

NEW LONDON MAY CHANGE LIGHTING PLAN

City Council Hears Proposed Project to Cost About $75,000-$100,000.

NEW LONDON — Rebuilding the entire New London lighting system at a proposed cost of $75,000 to $100,000, was the chief topic for discussion when council members met with M. J. Wilhelm of the Firelands Cooperative. Wilhelm outlined to council the plans of his company for New London over a period of the next year or two.

Regardless of what the cooperative and the council may decide as to future plans, at the present time new reflectors will be placed on the lights on New London's "white way." It is expected this work will be completed within the next month.

On Sept. 30, Wilhelm plans to go to Dayton to confer with engineers and company officials on the feasibility of changing the entire village system. As now planned, the outmoded poles now on the main streets, are to be removed and placed on the rear of town lots in order to eliminate line hazards, and current waste and add to property beautification. The proposed plan also calls for an underground cable system, particularly through the main part of town.

Opening of West Washburn street to provide an outlet to property owners in the vicinity of the Ohio Body company was discussed and approved by council. The street will be graded, widened and the bridge made accessible.

Get Permts For 5 Houses

Building permits were issued yesterday for the construction of five houses with an estimated value of $46,300.

Permits for four of the houses were issued to the contracting firm of Laser and Walker.

One permit was for the construction of a five-room frame house, to cost $8,000, at 277 Sturges avenue. The other three called for five-room brick veneer dwellings to cost $9,500 each. They will be at 226, 301 and 370 Wood street.

Curt J. Burkhart was granted a permit to build a five-room dwelling at an estimated cost of $9,800 at 342 Fairlawn avenue.

WANTS FOOD HEAD

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, O., chairman of the Republican congressional food study committee, yesterday issued a statement demanding "positive steps to put all food activities under one competent head." Such control, he said, should be placed under the department of agriculture.

TRAFFIC CODE OKAY SOUGHT

Results of Three-Month Study Given to Council.

BUCYRUS — A code of traffic regulations, another move by city officials to promote greater safety to motorists and pedestrians, has been presented to city council for legislative approval.

The new code, a result of three months study by the city traffic commission, offered a suggestion for a complete re-marking of all traffic signs and erection of new ones where necessary.

Other recommendations were a flasher-type light at Mansfield and Iren streets, and that certain streets be set aside as one-way thoroughfares, with others designated for one-side parking only.

Patrolman Charles Ghist, appointed by the police department, as traffic and pedestrian safety officer, assisted in drafting the new regulations.

City council also has under construction purchase of new traffic lights to replace lights removed some time ago from East Mansfield street and Sandusky avenue.

OVERTIME PAY SOUGHT

BUCYRUS — Engineers at the city water works pumping station have made formal request to city council through their AFL representative seeking overtime pay for all in excess of 48 hours work per week. Time and a half is requested for work over 48 hours. The AFL representative has advised council that the union scale is $1.10 an hour but average pay here is 92 cents an hour. No general pay increase is being asked at this time.

Court Suspends Driver's License

Two motorists were fined a total of $85 in Municipal Court today.

Robert A. Galbreath, Akron, was fined $10 and costs after he pleaded guilty to a speeding charge.

The court fined Orland Schooley, 24 McElroy road, $75 and costs and suspended his operator's license for six months on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Police last night arrested Robert H. Carter, Lexington; Robert Pewonski, 23 Jefferson avenue, and James E. Hindman, 96 Park avenue west, on charges of speeding. Hindman was told to appear in court on Sept. 21, while Carter and Pewonski was ordered to report for hearings, Sept. 25.

A FOOLISH WISH

Foolish wishes are in vain;
Naught but disappointments gain.
—Old Mother Nature.

The small Rabbit called Little Wobblenose was beginning to think that the Great World was not such a wonderful place to be out in by himself as he had thought it was when he first started out. Since then he had lost something with which he had started out, something with which most young people start out and soon lose or have taken away from them—self-confidence. Like them he had been sure that if he didn't know all there was to know he knew plenty, certainly enough to take care of himself. Again, like so many others who dislike to be told what to do and what not to do, he knew almost nothing of the Great World, not even enough to be afraid

What a change in just a few days, what a change! Now that he really did know many things, for he had learned fast, as must all little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, he felt that he knew almost nothing. Through lessons learned he was better able to look out for himself, yet he was less sure, very much less sure that he could do it. The Great World still was a wonderful place, but it was a frightening place

He had a neighbor with whom he had become well acquainted, a Wood Mouse from whom he had learned much for the Wood Mouse was wise in the ways of the Great World and the dangers that seemed ever present. You see he was grown up, a great-grandfather of a Mouse, and one does not live to be a great-grandfather of a Mouse without wisdom. Beside him the small Rabbit was big and every day growing bigger At first it had been hard to believe that one so much smaller could possibly know more than he, but now he listened to whatever his small neighbor said and remembered it to his profit

He hadn't dreamed that any one could be constantly afraid. It seemed as if his pretty little friend was forever dodging under something, or into something, or behind something. He disappeared or reappeared in the winking of an eye, or so it seemed. A moving shadow, a falling leaf, a Merry Little Breeze whispering in the grass, the smallest unknown sound, would cause him to disappear as if by magic until he was sure it did not mean danger. The small Rabbit had been a little sense in being so afraid He said so

He disappeared or reappeared in the winking of an eye, or so it seemed.

"When have you lived as long as I have, if you do, you'll be afraid just as I am," squeaked the Mouse, washing his face with his pretty white hands. "Some folks don't know enough to be afraid and that is just too bad—for them."

"Do you mean me?" demanded Little Wobblenose.

"Yes," squeaked the Mouse, "and the sooner you learn to be afraid the longer you will live."

"Know what?" asked the Small Rabbit

"What?" asked the Mouse.

"I am glad I am not as small as you. Yes, sir, I am so. I would hate to be such a fraidy " replied Little Wobblenose

Now in just a few days there had been a change, such a change! The little Rabbit had nearly been caught by Reddy Fox. He had seen what a moving shadow might mean, a hungry feathered hunter overhead looking for a careles little Rabbit or an unsuspecting Mouse. He was afraid now, even more afraid than his timid neighbor. This was because he hadn't yet learned what and whom to fear, and what and whom not to. So he was afraid all the time.

It was then that he became filled with envy. Envy is always foolish, but sometimes it seems more so than at other times. It causes folks to do a lot of foolish wishing. Yes, sir, envy is the cause of a lot of foolish wishing. It was so with Little Wobblenose. He saw how easily and quickly the Mouse could hide.

"I wish," said he to his small neighbor, "that I was as small as you"

Don't be silly. That is a foolish wish, a most foolish wish. You don't know what it means to be as small as I am. You should be thankful you are not," squeaked the Mouse. "A foolish wish A most foolish wish," he repeated.

Winchell — On Broadway

A wealthy sportsman, who has an interest in a nearby racetrack, recently gave a good-will party for several New York sportswriters. He flew them there in his luxurious plane. . . . Before the flight back, they were devouring a terrific meal, which was on the host too. . . . Sports historian Jimmy Powers, never an FDR rooter, was passionately making love to a 3½ lb. sirloin (which he washed down with champagne), when a loyal New Dealer quipped: "Hey, Jimmy! That Roosevelt sure ruined the country, didn't he?"

It happened at a first night long ago. Bob Benchley was seated next to Dorothy Parker, who pointed to Alec Woollcott—then weighing nearly 288. . . . "Look at Alec," he kidded. "He's wide awake."

"He's," flipped Dot, "wide asleep, too!"

Heheheh: In the 30th precinct the other 3:30 ayem, where the police cars made an exciting chase to capture some bandits, we asked a cop: "Why do they call the detectives 'The Brains Dep't'?" . . . He chuckled: "Oh, they musta made that up themselves."

* * *

There's a wonderful bit of quotation marksmanship in the Marx Bros. "Night in Casablanca."

"Is marriage impossible?" asks the ingenue.

"Only," says Groucho, "after!"

The great Negro leader, Booker T. Washington, was once in a great hurry to catch a train in Boston. . . . "I won't drive no Negro," said the cabman. . . . "Well," said the very fine man, "if you'll let me catch that train, I'll drive you."

And that's how he caught it.

Overheard in Beverly Hills, where two tots (kin of Humphrey Bogart and Edward G. Robinson) were tiffing: "Gwan," said one, after sticking out his tongue as far as he could, "your family's not so tough. My fathers can lick your fathers."

When the embryonic Theater, Inc., decided to present "Pygmalion" as their first production they hoped they could get Shaw to reduce his fees slightly for them. They sent a cable saying they were such a young theater group would he therefore take less in royalties, etc. Shaw's reply was brief and to the point. He cabled: "Grow up and send me my money."

* * *

A group of Washington reporters noticed a light burning in the usually dark State Dep't bldg. the other middle-of-the-night. . . . "I'll bet," sarcasm'd a columnist, "that is the light the State Dep't still keeps in the window for Hitler."

They were discussing a Mutual commentator noted for his pro-Franco frothings. . . . "To make matters worse," muttered one, "I hear he gets a big salary."

"Meaning nothing," added a pal. "Where can he spend pesos?"

Now boys! During the Cards-Dodgers headaches, one of the umps called Dixie Walker out, and he barked back: "You're blind! I didn't strike out!" . . . "Oh, didn't you?" replied the ump, the acid dripping from his fangs. "Well just look in tomorrow's newspapers and see!"

* * *

Dot's Dot: Champ (in and out) Barney Ross (we inquired via mutual pals) doesn't need money. He thanks you all just the same. Expects to lick it in two months or so. You'd be surprised at the number of famous men around here (and in H'wood) who have. . . . Premature Dep't: The N. Y. Sun and the Newspaper Guild aren't married, as erratumed.

Jackie Elinsonisms: The Nuremburg trials have dragged on so much you'd think it was the U. S. sedition case. . . . I understand Truman was very disappointed when he returned from his Bermuda cruise. He got his old job back.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—In the spring of 1920, Harry M. Daugherty, of Ohio, a Republican machine politician, no better than Harold Ickes, nor any worse, uttered a casual remark which remains, in the public imagination, one of the most cynical political expressions in our history.

The popular version, virtuously exploited with mountainous hypocrisy since 1932 by the Roosevelt adherency, is that Daugherty said his man, Warren G. Harding, would be nominated, not in the convention in Chicago, but in "a smoke-filled room."

I knew Daugherty in his declining days at a little sea-side inn, the Gulf View, at Sarasota, a mellow old rascal now, almost deaf and as nearly blind. He chuckled at my innocent horror of Republican politics in those sordid times and said I would learn that Roosevelt and Hopkins, Ickes, Mrs. Roosevelt, Morgenthau and the whole lot of them were of the same breed but with different stripes. Kelly and Hague and Pendergast he respected. They were what they were and without pretense.

Mr. Daugherty said he had not used the phrase "a smoke-filled room" but had merely remarked, with the wisdom of a practical politician, that after the other candidates had come to a deadlock the leaders, or bosses, of the Chicago convention would get together on Harding.

How else do the veterans' organizations elect regional and national commanders? How else do the big unions elect their majestic presidents, for all their pamphlets about "democracy" save that such as John Lewis, Dan Tobin and other absolute bosses are spared even the killing-off process to eliminate upstarts and straw-men?

I was reminded of this history when I read in the memoirs of Mrs. Frances Perkins that the Democratic convention of 1940 had absolutely no voice in the choice of Henry Wallace for vice president. Roosevelt chose him in a telephone conversation from the White House with her in Chicago.

"Yes," he said. "It's Wallace, I guess. I'll stick to that," and she passed the command to Harry Hopkins who put it through the works.

And Wallace was nominated though the convention roared in the most alarming note of anger that I have ever heard in covering some 15 of them. The bellow deepened when Wallace, insipid beyond imagining, flapped his hands like flippers in acceptance. How dangerous that personal decision was, the nation ,including most of the Democrats, began to realize only in 1944, after Wallace had revealed his admiration of the brutalitarian Soviet system with its pogroms and its bloody-handed personalities, and his shrewish, Hitlerian hatred of those who disagreed with him. Even Roosevelt grew afraid of him in 1944. Realizing that his health was failing and aware of the dictatorial "aggregate war powers" that Wallace would inherit, he abandoned Wallace in favor of Harry Truman. It must be agreed that Roosevelt did ditch Wallace because, after all, he was still nominating his vice presidents.

Hillman, who dreamed of a Communist world empire, with Moscow its capital, could see that Roosevelt was failing fast, and devoutly wanted Wallace.

When Roosevelt said "clear everything with Sidney" he undoubtedly had told Sidney he could have Truman or Byrnes but not Wallace, otherwise, Wallace, not Truman, would be president today and God knows what "Fascist" Americans who fought in wars that the huge and robust Wallace avoided might be in concentration camps today, by virtue of his "aggregate war powers."

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

IT MAY HELP Mr. Truman a bit to recall that he is not the first president who finds himself with his two strongest cabinet officers seriously at odds at a moment of great international danger. President Washington had to ride out a conflict about American policy in Europe between his secretary of state, who was Jefferson and his secretary of treasury, who was Alexander Hamilton.

Like Mr. Wallace and Mr Byrnes, they and their followers differed not only about foreign affairs but about internal, and then as now this deeply embittered the controversy.

* * *

THE LESSON of history, some one who was discouraged has said, is that no one ever learns the lessons of history. Yet one lesson our own history teaches us. It is that whenever the issues of foreign policy are allowed to appear as a choice among foreign powers that are to be favored, the country becomes divided in a sterile and destructive debate, and it becomes inordinately difficult to form a constructive American policy. Rightly read, this, and not the much misunderstood passages about alliances, is the lesson which Washington sought to teach in the farewell address.

* *

The eruption of Mr. Wallace is due in the last analysis to neglect of this lesson. Historians will speak of it. I imagine, as the delayed but certain reaction to the crucial events of last winter, when Mr. Byrnes took the decision to wage a diplomatic war against the expansion of the Soviet Union. This was a necessary decision, so it seems to me, but it was an exceedingly grave decision.

* * *

FOR WHILE the decision to oppose the expansion of the Soviet Union was unavoidable and was right, the diplomatic policy with which the decision has been implemented was, it seems to me, superficial and improvised. It lacked what was most essential—a central strategical idea as to how, when and with what measures, the Soviet Union could be induced and compelled to negotiate with us on the fundamental issue of the limits of their military power and of our own.

The policy we have actually pursued has been one of conducting an endless series of little skirmishes all around the vast periphery of the Soviet Union. This has envenomed our relations without bringing us nearer to a decisive encounter and settlement.

* * *

YET I DO NOT think that Mr. Wallace has understood the problem of how to deal with Russia. His basic fallacy, to put it in a nutshell, is that he emerges as a pacifist who supposes that Stalin and his associates can be won over by the reduction of American military power and its withdrawal as an offensive force from Europe and Asia.

Mr. Wallace argues that if we oppose American power to Soviet power, the only possible result will be an atomic war of annihilation. He has overlooked the fact that while a race of armaments has usually led to war, unilateral pacifism has also led to war.

REDS OPPOSE BRICKER

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ruled off the Ohio ballot, the Communist party intends in the November election to make its "number one job" defeat of John W. Bricker, Republican nominee for U. S. senator, Arnold Johnson, state chairman, said today.

LEGION ASKED TO PRESERVE WORLD PEACE

State Commander Speaks at Installation Ceremonies of McVey Post.

Harry Eaton of Ashland, retiring state commander of the American Legion, last night called upon Legionnaires and all veterans to accept a personal responsibility for leadership to enduring peace and prosperity in the post-war world.

Speaking at installation ceremonies for new officers at the McVey post home, he urged younger veterans to be patient and work up through the ranks with proven ability to positions of leadership.

"The proving of good leadership is in the individual post," he stated.

"I'm hoping and praying for the day when the Legion leadership is entirely in the hands of you younger men," he told World War II members.

Eaton said that one sure way to have no more wars was to adopt the Golden Rule and follow the doctrine of speaking softly and carrying a big stick.

The state commander's talk followed installation of McVey post officers for 1947 by Past Department Commander R. B. "Mud" Gardner.

Ralph Hughes, retiring post commander, reviewed the Legion's activities and accomplishments during the past year, which included "gifts to the Yanks who gave" for hospitalized vets, an Armistice day celebration, Boys State program, the Vetsville housing project, the district convention in July, junior baseball league teams and the Victory day celebration.

The McVey Post band, under the direction of Jack Lewis, opened the meeting with the national anthem as the colors were brought to the stand, and played appropriate selections between events on the program.

Dwight A. McCullough was then sworn in as 1947 commander of McVey post as Past State Commander Gardner thanked Hughes for his service to the Legion and also McCullough, who served as acting commander during Hughes' illness.

Other officers pledged to carry on the Legion program last night were H. B. Emmer, senior vice-commander; Harlus R. Crichfield, junior vice-commander; Gene Cusic, adjutant; Dr. L. H. Bachrach, chaplain; Joe Geiger, finance officer; John Slaybaugh, sergeant-at-arms; and William Herrick and Thomas Santoro, color bearers.

After the meeting, members adjourned to the canteen where entertainment was provided by Wen Murray and a trumpet quartet from Ashland's Legion band.

Bureau Heads Get Set For Program Opening Oct. 1.

Atty. J. H. Gongwer, Roger Gray and Thomas Dorsey will serve as promotion speakers for the Community Fund campaign, Oct. 14 through Oct. 23, Rev. Samuel U. J Peard, chairman of the speakers' bureau, announced today.

All three men, veteran workers of Community Fund campaigns, will be available for club and organization appointments, Rev. Peard added. Organizations desiring brief talks before their membership on the Community Fund and its operation are urged to call the office for the speakers. Rev. Peard said that more speakers are available for appointments if they are needed.

First in a series of meetings, designed to instruct committee heads with the duties of their workers, was held last night in the Community Fund office, under the direction of W. E. Slabaugh, jr., general chairman of the campaign. Chairmen attending were C. J. Solomon, auto; Dwight P. Smith, financial; and Norman L. Wolfe, public employes.

First contribution to the $94,067 campaign was given to the Woodland PTA, who donated $25, Mrs. Jane Williams, executive secretary reported.

Publicity for the drive will get under way Oct. 1, Slabaugh said, adding that division chairman are completing their lists of workers today.

Slabaugh estimated that the completed list of workers will total 300, not including those solicitors in industrial plants.

County Ranks 14th In Tax Receipts

Richland county ranks 14th among the 88 counties in Ohio in sales tax revenue so far this year, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

The county's 1946 receipts climbed to $702,741 during the first week of September, representing a gain of $226.902 over the 1945 figure at the same time in the year.

Retail sales during the first week in September produced $25,324 in the county as compared with $15,826 for that week last year.

Every other county in the Mansfield area has shown a big increase over 1945, some of them nearly doubling the last year's total at this time.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR PARK LEVY

Association Votes Sponsorship of Recreation Assessment.

A vigorous campaign, aimed at winning voter approval for the two-tenths mill recreation levy at the November election, was planned today by the Mansfield Public Park association.

Secretary H. J. Quinlan announced that the association, meeting last night in Maple Lake park, voted unanimously to sponsor the levy.

R. O. Richards has been named to direct the publicity campaign and the six park associations agreed to take charge of the campaign in their own wards. They are the Liberty, John Todd, Prospect, Johns, North Lake and Maple Lake-South park associations.

"We have studied this program for more than a year," Quinlan explained, "and there seems to be a definite need for a planned year-around program of recreation."

The vote to sponsor the campaign came after Floyd Dent, Boy Scout executive, had outlined the need. Various of the park associations earlier had heard Probate Judge Stuart Cramer, chairman of the campaign committee, discuss planned recreation as a deterrent to juvenile delinquency.

Jury Indicts Ex-Sheriff

MILLERSBURG — Former Holmes county sheriff, Harry R. Weiss, was indicted by the Holmes county grand jury yesterday afternoon on charges of receiving part of the former deputy's salary or compensation.

The jurors indicted on 32 counts, covering alleged "kick-back" of salary due Mrs. Frances Close former deputy, from January, 1941 to Sept. 1, 1945. Each count ranged from $31.50 to $44.60. They totaled $1,344.60.

Weiss was given until 2 p. m. Friday to enter a counterplea.

He had resigned as sheriff effective July 1, at the request of Holmes county commissioners after state examiners had discovered the alleged irregularity. Weiss had been sheriff since 1935.

UP AND DOWN the Street

PRESSURE FROM WITHIN—

The Woodland PTA didn't have a chance.

During the meeting the Community Fund campaign came up. Fred B. Hout, president of the PTA, read the advance Community Fund letter concerning the drive which opens Oct. 14. Hout is also president of the Community Fund. The letter was from W. E. Slabaugh, jr., member of the PTA and general chairman of the campaign. Also in the audience to back Hout and Slabaugh were Elmer A. Eckert, campaign publicity chairman, and Mrs. Louis Gisa, women's division chairman of the drive.

Result? Woodland PTA became the drive's first contributor with a $25 gift, which, incidentally, was a 500 per cent boost over last year's donation.

POSSUM HUNTER—

Although the legal season was still about two months off, Mansfield's Finest turned to "possum huntin'" last night at the request of Omer Boyd, 47 West First street. Boyd complained that there were two opossums in his yard. Police arrived to find that the animals had scrambled up a tree. The officers' score for the night hunt was two furry prowlers without the benefit of the musical baying of hounds.

FIRE FIGHTERS—

Did you ever have the urge to follow the fire engines? If so, South Boulevards would probably have its "welcome" mat out for you.

Every other Wednesday night, some 15 volunteers, under the leadership of their chief, J. J. Swisher, engage in a full scale fire drill, in which they learn to operate a standard fire truck and its equipment.

Sometimes they even build a mock brush fire to test their skill as fire fighters.

"One time, not long ago," Swisher related, "the wind came up and gave the boys a real time of it."

Ladder practice is obtained by climbing to the roofs of houses.

SAYS COMBINE MUST INCLUDE GERMAN STATE

Former Prime Minister Cites Future Danger of the Atomic Bomb.

ZURICH, Switzerland—(AP) — Winston Churchill called today for "an end to retribution" for Germany once she is stripped of the power to make war and for French and German partnership in "some kind of United States of Europe."

Declaring in an address at the University of Zurich that "we dwell strangely and precariously under the shield and protection of the atomic bomb," Britain's war-time prime minister said Europe needed a regional organization within the United Nations.

"France and Germany must take the lead together," he said. "Great Britain, the British commonwealth of nations, mighty America and, I trust, Soviet Russia—for then, indeed, all would be well—must be the friends and sponsors of the new Europe and must champion its right to live and shine."

Speaking of the urgency of finding a solution of the world's problems, he said "the atom bomb is still only in the hands of a state or nation which we know will never use it except in the cause of right and freedom, but it may well be that in a few years this awful agency of destruction will be widespread and the catastrophe following its use by several warring nations will not only bring to an end all that we call civilization, but may possibly disintegrate the world itself."

"There is no reason why a regional organization of Europe would in any way conflict with the United Nations," Britain's wartime premier declared.

"There must be a spiritually great France and a spiritually great Germany," he continued, "because a United States of Europe would make the material strength of individual nations less important."

FREEDOM SHORT FOR 2 ESCAPERS

Youths Captured Two Hours After Fleeing OSR.

Liberty was short-lived today for two Mansfield reformatory escapers.

Richard Janieszewski, 19, and Harry Grotwohl, 18, fled the institution garden at 8:15 a. m. and were captured around 10:30 a. m. in the vicinity of the B and O railroad Springmill crossing. Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent, said that the capture was made by Inspector George Allerding and Officer Robert E. Lee.

Cases of the two youths will be heard in institutional court, Glattke said. They face a possible penalty of two extra years of imprisonment.

Both youths are serving sentences of one year to age. Janieszewski was received on Jan. 25, 1946, from Cuyhoga county and Gratwohl on Sept. 11, 1945 from Butler county.

Three fugitives from the Sandusky honor camp were returned to the reformatory yesterday after apprehension in a stolen car in Toledo.

The men, Gilbert Turpin, 21, of Hamilton and Ernest Boost, 18, and Robert Watson, 19, both of Toledo, were captured by Toledo police when they stopped in that city to visit Watson's wife. They escaped from the honor camp Wednesday and stole an automobile belonging to Henry Behrends of Sandusky.

SHELBY—The final game of the Shelby softball league in the playoff series between the Eagles, second half winner and the Shelby Salesbook, first half winner, will be played Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on the waterworks diamond.

The Eagles won one game 3 to 2, and the Salesbook won the other, 3 to 2.

Giants and Dodgers Even In Ohio State Playoff

ZANESVILLE —(AP)— Even at one-up, the Ohio State league's post-season play-off finals move here today from Springfield for a three-game stand.

Local fans were assured they would see three games when the Zanesville Dodgers trimmed the champion Springfielders 6-4 there last night before 1,220 fans.

Branca Blanks Pirates

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

There was every indication today that whichever team wins the National league flag—whether it be the St. Louis Cardinals or Brooklyn Dodgers—will have to overcome strong opposition from the rest of the league the remainder of the way.

All teams are geared up and lying in wait for the two contenders. The Cardinals, expecting fairly soft opposition from the Boston Braves whom they have defeated 14 times in 20 engagements this season, found a thoroughly aroused team and went down to a 2-1 defeat under the lights at Braves' field.

The setback reduced the league leaders' margin over the Dodgers to a game and a half. The Brooks were held to a split by the Pittsburgh Pirates in an afternoon double header at Ebbets' field.

The Cards meet the Braves again today, with the Tribe in the midst of a six-game winning streak which has pulled it up within a game of the third place Cubs.

Of St. Louis' eight remaining games, six are against the Cubs, who will be fighting to hold onto third place, and two are against the Cincinnati Reds, who are battling with the Philadelphia Phils for fifth place. Of Brooklyn's 10 games, five are against Boston, one against Cincinnati, three against the Phils, and one against the Pirates who trail the Reds by only half-a-game.

Lefty Fritz Ostermueller, a Dodger castoff, held his former mates to nine scattered hits in pitching the seventh place Pirates to a first game 3-2 victory.

Ralph Branca, who turned in that masterful shutout job against the Cardinals last week, duplicated his runless performance with a five-hit 3-0 victory for the Dodgers in the second game.

Hal Newhouser became the first major league pitcher to register 25 victories for three consecutive years since Lefty Grove did it in 1930-32. Newhouser reached that level yesterday when he pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 2-1 10-inning victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Boston Red Sox, with Manager Joe Cronin and a half-dozen of his top-flight performers back home resting for the world series, beat the Browns 6-2 under the lights in St. Louis. Home runs by Sherry Robertson, Stan Spence, Mickey Vernon and Jake Early helped Washington humble the Cleveland Indians 8-1 on their own grounds.

The Phils solidified their hold on fifth place in the National league by winning twice from the sixth place Reds 2-1 and 6-5.

The Cubs preserved their slim lead over the Braves by whipping the New York Giants 4-3. A three-run eighth inning against rookie Marvin Grissom broke a 1-1 tie.

Earl Caldwell won his 13th game against four setbacks as the Chicago White Sox split with the New York Yankees. After Spud Chandler gained his 18th victory for the Yanks with a 4-0 shutout, the Sox won the nightcap 9-7, aided by the 41-year-old Caldwell's fine relief hurling.

Four Keglers Hit Roll of Honor

Four bowlers in the City "A" league came through with better than "600" scores last night at the Colony Bowling Alleys.

C. Engleman, Mid-Ohio, was high with a 224-177-212—613; S. Guarino, No Names, had 203-226-180—609; Wessmore, Bissman's Birdie Brand, 174-232-202—608; and A. Stirtzinger, Orange Street Cafe, had 211-191-202—604.

Orange Street Cafe and Bissman's Birdie Brand are leading the league with eight wins against one defeat.

Prostate Gland Trouble?

I'm a railroad man and for over 3 years had difficulty working because of backaches due to Prostate Gland trouble. Doctor's formula proved of great benefit and before and since his death have sold them (now called Watt's Suppositories) to railroad men and others the country over. Fine testimonials and repeat business show the good work they do. Backache, getting up nights, often indicate an inflamed Prostate Gland. I guarantee your money back if not given relief. One Dozen Watt's Suppositories, $1.25; 2½ dozen for $2.50. For Sale at Lautsbaugh Pharmacy. —Adv.

BLUE BOMBERS-TYGERS TILT TOPS AREA CARD

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor.

The gridiron engagement between Mansfield Senior high and Cleveland East tomorrow night at Stadium field is strictly a test-tube case for the Tyger 1946 football fortunes.

Coach Paul Snyder's Mansfield aggregation and the East Blue Bombers had easy times in seasonal inaugurals last week but Friday's clash will be a completely different story.

The Tygers trampled Marion-Harding, 33 to 13, while East took the measure of Cleveland Shaw, 25 to 6.

Outcome of the Tyger-Blue Bomber battle should pretty well determine the playing potential of the Bengal pigskin gang. Snyder has an imposing array of 22 lettermen available but the Harding game did not serve as a true yardstick of the Mansfield eleven's strength.

Mansfield had a decided weight advantage over the Prexies and had the added benefit of more depth in every position. However, the Tygers will not have that advantage against East.

The Cleveland club will match Snyder's team pound for pound and Coach Gregory Conly has nine lettermen in his starting lineup. Three of these vets—Backs Carl Taseff and Bill Goettling and Center Ken Schuff—are rated as Cleveland's top schoolboy gridders.

Goettling packs 190 pounds on his sturdy frame and is equally good at line-blasting, passing and punting. Taseff passes when East uses the T formation while Goettling handles the aerial duties from the Bombers' modified short punt setup.

Conly's backs are fast and the linemen pack plenty of power on offense and defense. The Tygers upset the Bombers 18 to 6 in '45 after a tough battle.

Snyder sent his charges through a long drill last night under the lights at Stadium field and concluded with a forward passing session. The Tygers took to the air lanes only twice against Marion but sharp-shooting Ollie Cline is scheduled to throw quite a few aerials tomorrow.

The Tyger club will hear a scouting report on the East-Shaw game in the Senior high auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. Motion pictures of the Mansfield-Marion contest will also be shown.

In addition to the Mansfield-Cleveland conflict ten other contests are on the program tomorrow for area football machines.

Mansfield Madison will be after its second straight decision Friday at Oberlin. Madison slaughtered New London, 31 to 13, last Friday while Oberlin dropped a 25 to 0 decision to Elyria.

However, Oberlin was playing out of its class and should give the Rams a battle. Elyria counted three times in the first six minutes against Oberlin.

Coach Al Fendrick's Shelby team dropped its opener to New Philadelphia 21 to 7 last week but hopes to get on the victory wagon tomorrow night when Willard invades W. W. Skiles field. The Whippets pass defense weakness cost them the game at New Philadelphia but Fendrick has worked hard this week to iron out the mistakes.

Loudonville travels to Utica Friday afternoon. The former team topped Fredericktown, 12 to 0, last week and is rated as favorite over Utica. Coach Boyer has 10 lettermen on his Loudonville squad.

In the other area contests Fredericktown plays at Bellville, Sandusky St. Mary's at New London, Ashland at Fremont, Galion at Crestline, Bucyrus at Norwalk, Mt. Gilead at Carey and Upper Sandusky at Bellevue.

Crestline Railroaders defeated the Mt. Gilead Indians 8 to 0 last week before the largest crowd ever to witness a Redskins home game.

Stove Bowling League Opens

Team captains for the first shift are: Tom Santoro, Personnel; Robert Hock, Range Assembly No. 1; Ralph Moser, Maintenance; Olin Heestand, Office No. 1; Ted LeMunyon, Enamel Plant; Clarence Bishop, Paint Shop; Robert Bogantz, Office No. 2; Steve Gerger, Castings.

AA Playoff Finals Begin

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— The final playoff series in the American Association is scheduled to get under way here tonight with the Louisville Colonels, winners of the Association pennant, meeting the Indianapolis Indians.

Jim Wilson has been given the hurling assignment for the Colonels by Manager Nemo Leibold. Rex Cecil, a former Colonel, is slated to occupy the mound for the Indians.

The Colonels defeated St. Paul in the semi-final playoff series, gaining their fourth victory Sunday.

The first two games in the four-best-out-of-seven-game series between Indianapolis and Louisville will be played here, with the teams then going to Indianapolis for the next three games if that many are necessary.

FEMININE TOUCH — June Byers (above) Houston, Texas, will be making her second appearance in as many weeks in the Armory tonight when she meets Elvira Snodgrass, Tennessee mountain gal, in the feature match of the weekly wrestling show. They meet in the first bout at 8:15 p. m. Jack Vansky and Angelo Martinelli collide in the main-go.

LOUIS TEARS TAMI APART IN FIRST

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—They dug up another heavyweight last night, Tami Mauriello, who was not scared of Joe Louis, and Tami wound up like so many of his predecessors have, a-blubbering in his dressing room after having been knocked out in the first round.

The Bronx barkeep was not over-awed by the champion. With the very first punch of their title bout in Yankee stadium, Mauriello clipped Joe on the temple and sent him reeling into the ropes as the throng rose and bellowed its excitement.

And then Louis, more surprised than hurt, by his later admission, took after Tami, tore him apart and left him draped helplessly over the middle rope in 2:09 of the opening stanza. It was Joe's 23rd successful defense of his title.

"I thought I had him," Tami cried as he sat later with a towel draped around his dejected head. "I thought I had him, and I grew careless."

At that, and in the tradition of another tavern keeper, Tony Galento, Mauriello did not "die" on his way to fight Louis. He went in there cocky, exploded his best punches on the champion's jaw, and went down only after he had been beaten into helpless exhaustion.

That was much more than a number of other challengers have done. Last night's brief brawl, at a $30 top, gave the crowd of 38,494 that paid $335,063 more action and more thrills than the ballyhooed $100 number between Louis and Billy Conn three months back.

The echo of the starting bell still was bouncing around through the stadium's triple deck when Mauriello threw the first punch of the fight, a looping right, that caught Louis flush and sent him floundering against the ropes. Had the ropes not been there, Joe would have landed in about the second row.

Though it was a stiff wallop, it didn't appear to daze the champ, only embarrass him. He was right back, tearing into Mauriello with a flurry of terrific lefts and rights, and within seconds nearly ripped Tami's head off with a clean left hook to the button.

Tami's 198½ pounds hit the canvas with a bump. He started to rise at five, but thought better of it and settled back for the count of nine. Then he came up punching.

Once, over in a neutral corner, he slammed home another right to the button that caused Louis to bend like a reed and momentarily stemmed the fury of the champion's attack. But only momentarily.

Finally another left hook slammed the game Tami to the floor in the exact spot he had landed the first time. With a mighty effort he pulled himself to the middle strand, and with his face cradled in his glove and his legs powerless to lift him higher, he listened to Referee Arthur Donovan count the final ten.

LONDON—(AP)—Boxing Promoter Jack Solomons said today Joe Louis would defend his world heavyweight title against British Champion Bruce Woodcock in London next summer.

"I will guarantee that the Louis versus Woodcock world heavyweight title fight will take place in London next summer," Solomons said.

"Mike Jacobs will not say no to me, but naturally it'll have to be a joint promotion."

PACIFIC GUARD FOR U. S. URGED

Congressmen Say Plan Needed to Meet Russian Threat.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A group of congressmen recommended today that the United States bolster its military and diplomatic positions in the Pacific and Far Eastern areas to meet the threat of Russian encroachment there.

The recommendation was made by five members of the house military committee upon completion of a 40,000-mile inspection tour of military installations in Alaska, Japan, China, the Philippines, and many Pacific islands where United States armed forces are based

The group stressed that their recommendations were made as a realistic appraisal of United States' defense needs.

Their six-weeks survey was augmented by off-the-record reports from Gen George C. Marshall in Nanking, China and Gen. MacArthur's staff in Tokyo.

Their recommendations, to be made formally to congress, call for a Pacific defense plan hinged upon a string of air bases from Alaska to Australia where new super-bombers capable of flying to the Orient, could be stationed

Committee members saw China as the number one sore spot in the Orient, and some expressed the fear that continuation of hostilities between the Chinese Communists and the Nationalist government might provoke an international incident involving the United States.

HENRY J. KAISER, center, west coast industrialist, hands the keys to the first of his planned 10,000-a-year assembly line homes to the happy new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hinley, at Los Angeles, Cal. Fritz B. Burns, at right, president of the project, looks on. Made of prefabricated sections and assembled on the lot, Kaiser's homes will be produced at the rate of 100 a week by next month, according to Kaiser, and the five basic styles will be sold between $6,950 and $8,650.

'50-20 Club' Enlists Few Vets In City

Mansfield veterans show little interest in joining the "52-20 club" composed of veterans drawing unemployment benefits under the GI Bill of Rights in lieu of suitable jobs.

C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield branch of the United States Employment Service, said today the number of veterans drawing unemployment pay of $20 per week is now the lowest since the GI Bill was enacted

Only about 100 veterans are currently drawing weekly benefits.

Handley said 704 claims were handled last month, but since each person must file for benefits once a week, some persons had more than one claim during the period.

In August only 91 new claims were filed under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act and only 23 self-employed veterans sought financial aid.

"The average Mansfield GI," Handley explained, "draws unemployment benefits only about three weeks before he is placed in a suitable job."

Handley declared the "52-20 club" is virtually non-existent here because of the Mansfield labor shortage.

Other civilian workers in Mansfield drawing benefits under the Ohio law from the BUC last month numbered 59 workers applying for compensation. Some 26 of these new claimants were women

Vets Get Aid Buying Surplus

Mansfield and Richland county veterans will be aided in obtaining many hard-to-get items of surplus war property Tuesday and Wednesday when War Assets Administration representatives will be stationed at the Veterans Information center

William R Allen, director of the center said today that men from the WAA's Cleveland division would be on duty from 9 a. m. to 9 p m on both days to interview veterans and accept applications for priority to purchase surplus goods.

Allen said that this move by the WAA is in line with its policy of bringing its service to the veteran wherever he is located.

Such items as medical and dental equipment, binoculars, watches and office equipment have been set aside for sale only to World War II veterans.

On most other surplus property, according to the WAA, World War II veterans enjoy a priority second only to the federal government. These veterans may be granted priority to purchase surplus property for use in their own business, agricultural or professional enterprises.
